

Greeks Making Wide Advances in Albania

Left Wing in Drive Past Vital Port

Athens.—(P)—The Greek left wing, reported to have smashed past Port Edda, was said today to be passing wide new gains all along the battlefield and threatening to engulf the last Italian fighting force in southern Albania.

The high command reported that Greek shock troops won new mountain heights north of Premet, in a thrust into central Albania, and north of Pogradetz, in a drive down the road toward Elbasan near the Albanian capital, on the high wing, but a government spokesman termed the left wing advance the "most important."

There, the spokesman said, "the enemy retreated to the heights around Delvino and has passed Santi Quaranta."

That is the port the Italians renamed Porto Edda for Premier Mussolini's daughter.

Head Under Fire
The Greeks apparently had not broken Italian resistance in the section immediately around the port, but indicated fascist troops there might be cut off. The high command declared the road linking the port with Argirocastro, 15 miles northeast, had been placed under Greek fire.

Delvino, to which Italians were reported to have retreated, is five miles northeast of the port on that road.

In the central and northern sectors, the high command reported that more prisoners had been taken since started along the roads back into Greece. It also said to have been ploded by more than 3,000 disarmed Italians. The greatest number of prisoners reported taken was 5,000 yesterday. Their surrender, the Greeks declared, broke Italian morale and resistance in the middle of the fighting front.

"Near Premet," the high command said, "our sections occupied new positions. . . . On the Ostrovitz mountains, successful attacks by our troops dispersed enemy sections."

A spokesman added that "in the river Acoos region of the central sector, our troops are fighting with the same courage as that which enabled them to capture Pogradetz and have captured a summit 2,445 meters (about 7,900 feet) high on Politani mountain. There, the Italians were strongly established and hoped to remain."

Base for Allies

Sada Bay, Island of Crete.—(P)—Great Britain and Greece are forging a powerful base out of this strategic island in the eastern Mediterranean, and the British report that it already is blockading effectively Italy's fortified Dodecanese island.

Almost all Crete teams with British and Greek soldiers.

Heavy anti-aircraft guns guard the rim of mountains overlooking the harbor, one of the biggest and deepest in this Mediterranean region.

While transports bring in fresh troops and supplies, some of Britain's crack warships stand watch in the bay, ready to meet any Italian sea or air attack.

Greek working alongside the British are throwing up new fortifications.

The Greek inhabitants of this peaceful, brown, hilly island have turned readily from their goat-herding, wine-pressing and vegetable-farming, and every able-bodied man is enrolled for army service.

Island Now Camp
It is only a little more than a month since Italy invaded Greece, but this whole island has been turned into a war camp.

The British say their men and material are making Crete one of the strongest links in Britain's blockade of Italy's fortified Dodecanese islands. Not one Italian supply ship, they say, has passed through the strait to the Dodecanese since the British base was established here.

How strong Britain's land, sea and air forces are is a secret, but officers say they are more than sufficient to cope with any Italian offensive.

17 Merchant Ships Sunk, Nazis Assert

British Auxiliary Cruiser Also Sent to Bottom, Berlin High Command Says

Berlin.—(P)—In two successful submarine assaults on Britain's commerce yesterday, one of them under the shell-fire of British warships, 17 merchantmen totaling more than 131,000 tons and a 17,000-ton auxiliary cruiser were sent to the bottom, the high command reported today.

With two others, totaling 16,000 tons, added as probably sunk, the command said that "thus, on Dec. 2 submarines alone sank British shipping totaling over 160,000 tons."

At least 15 of the ships, representing 110,000 tons, went down in one swoop, it said, when U-boat slipped past the booming guns of a convoy's strong cruiser and destroyer guard and rammed home their torpedoes before the zig-zag line of freighters scattered.

Believe Others Sunk
"It is probable," it added, "that two other ships belonging to the convoy and totaling 16,000 tons were also sunk."

Although the command said the sunken auxiliary cruiser, one of the protecting vessels which put up "energetic fire" against the U-boats, was the 16,004-ton converted liner Caledonia, D.N.B., official German news agency, eliminated that identification.

The agency later asked editors to strike mention of the Caledonia from the communiqué, substituting merely "an auxiliary cruiser of about 17,000 tons."

(Identification of the Caledonia apparently was erroneous. An admiralty announcement June 14, confirming Germany's own claim, admitted that the former Anchor liner, converted for war service and renamed the Scotstoun, was sunk by a German submarine the day before with a loss of two officers and four seamen.)

With another submarine, apart from the attack on the convoy, reported two merchantmen totaling 21,247 tons sunk, the high command said "thus, on Dec. 2, submarines alone sank British shipping totaling over 160,000 tons."

Pontiff Asks Warring Nations To Observe Christmas Truce

Vatican City.—(P)—Pope Pius XII asked warring powers today to observe a Christmas truce to keep "the clash of arms from drowning out the angel chorus of peace."

The pontiff called the belligerents to observe a truce "spontaneously or by mutual accord" in order that "new bloodshed may not disturb or miserably extinguish heavenly joy of that hour."

The appeal was contained in a motu proprio, the name given to a papal decree because of the phrase, motu proprio—"of his own accord"—used in the document.

The pope said in part: "It is fair to hope and trust that at least on that Holy night of that Holy day all belligerents will declare a truce either spontaneously or by mutual accord so that the clash of arms shall not cover the angelic chorus of peace which is repeated in the sacred temples and so that new fraternal bloodshed shall not disturb or miserably extinguish the heavenly joy of that hour."

The pontiff's appeal accompanied permission for Christmas eve masses in the afternoon instead of midnight where wartime blackouts prevail.

In addition, the pope freed Catholics in war-stricken regions from obligations to attend mass on Christmas day itself.

Nov. 26 Prime Minister Winston Churchill rejected with a curt "No, sir," a proposal made in the British parliament that he seek to arrange a Christmas armistice.

Dykstra's Pay Being Held Up

Madison.—(P)—Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman today raised a question as to whether Clarence A. Dykstra could continue to serve as president of the University of Wisconsin while he held the office of national draft administrator.

Zimmerman announced he would confer with the university regents Dec. 7 on the legality of an arrangement under which Dykstra was granted a leave of absence with the understanding that his state salary of $15,000 a year would be continued and that he would turn over his $10,000 federal salary to the university.

The secretary of state said that in the meantime he would hold up Dykstra's pay check of $1,187.50 "or November."

Zimmerman said there was doubt as to whether the state constitution permitted the university president to draw a state salary while holding a federal office.

State 'Birthday Ball' Chairman Is Named

Wisconsin Rapids.—(P)—Appointment of Byron B. Conway, Wisconsin Rapids attorney, as state chairman of committees for the President Roosevelt "birthday ball" celebrations was announced here today.

Wisconsin will participate Jan. 30 in a nationwide celebration of the president's birthday as part of a program to raise funds for infantile paralysis sufferers.

Conway held a similar post in last year's celebration.

Dies Wants to Continue Probe Another Year

Hopes Appeals by People Will Help Obtain Approval

Washington.—(P)—Chairman Dies (D-Texas) staked the future of the house committee on un-American activities today on appeals by the "people of America" for continuance of the work he said it was doing in exposing fifth columnists and saboteurs.

Exactly one month before the legal expiration of the committee's authority, the Texan went on the radio last night to review its work and conclude with the assertion that there had been at least five acts of sabotage on "a most important experimental plane" at one of the largest plants in the country.

He declined to identify this incident further, saying privately that in view of the possibility that corrective measures might be adopted, the company should not be named.

In his appeal to the people of the country Dies' thoughts were centered on having congress do what it has done thrice before—order continuation of the investigation of un-American activities for another year. Dies already has announced he would seek such action.

Any "sabotage of this investigation," he said last night, would constitute a victory for the fifth column.

"You, the people of America," he went on, "have the means at hand to confound your enemies and defeat their deceitful strategy. You have only to let your voices be heard in the halls of congress and you may rest assured that those who derive their authority from you will not fail to do your will."

U. S. Watchful

Petersburg, Ill.—(P)—Increased vigilance by the federal department of justice against "subversive activities emanating from foreign countries" was forecast last night by O. John Rogge, assistant attorney general who heads the department's criminal division.

The federal prosecutor said in an address that his division has been placing "emphasis" on a campaign against corruption in state and local politics but added:

"In the future, we may find it well to shift a portion of our emphasis to a study of subversive activities emanating from foreign countries which do not have a democratic form of government, and to a study of dishonest and deceptive propaganda."

Rail Mail Clerk Is Found Slain

Chicago.—(P)—Carl R. Shinn of Warsaw, Ind., 52-year-old railway mail clerk, was found shot to death today in a mail car in the Pennsylvania road yards at Harrison and Canal streets.

A .45-caliber bullet had pierced the left side of his chest. The weapon lay beside a mail pouch. Postal inspectors said a preliminary examination disclosed no disturbance of the mail contents of the car.

Post office officials and police joined in an investigation of the death. They said that Shinn, a veteran of 20 years service in the post office department, apparently arrived for work in the car at 6:30 a. m. His body was found by another mail clerk, R. A. Robinson, who arrived later.

Zimmerman Doubts Draft Chief Can Remain U. W. Head

Madison.—(P)—Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman today raised a question as to whether Clarence A. Dykstra could continue to serve as president of the University of Wisconsin while he held the office of national draft administrator.

Zimmerman announced he would confer with the university regents Dec. 7 on the legality of an arrangement under which Dykstra was granted a leave of absence with the understanding that his state salary of $15,000 a year would be continued and that he would turn over his $10,000 federal salary to the university.

2 Utilities and 3 Executives to Face U. S. Court

Accused of Plot to Make Contributions in Violation of Law

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—A federal grand jury today indicted two utilities companies and three executives on charges of conspiring to make political contributions in violation of the public utility holding company act and the conspiracy provisions of the federal criminal code.

The indictment, containing five counts, was returned against the Illinois Iowa Power company and the Missouri Power and Light company.

The individuals named were Henry L. Hanley, vice president of the Illinois Iowa Power company; James D. Mortimer, former president of the North American company, huge holding system with which both indicted firms are affiliated; and Aura C. Hall, also a vice president of the Illinois Iowa Power company.

The indictment charged that the secret slush fund distributed to candidates for public office by the Illinois Iowa Power company amounted to $77,000.

Named with Hanley, Mortimer and Hall as conspirators, but not as defendants, were the late James E. Johnson, former vice president

12 Other WPA Men Injured When Train Crashes Into Truck

Benton, Ill.—(P)—Four WPA workers were killed and 12 others injured, 6 seriously, when a truck taking them to work was struck by a one-car motor train here early today.

The dead were Henry Dare, Lloyd Pierson, John Chiatli and Arthur Davis, all of nearby Christopher.

Coroner D. J. Clayton said the toll may mount during the day because of the condition of the injured.

The victims were riding to a road project just south of this city when the truck was struck at a crossing by the Egyptian Zephyr of the C. and E. I. railroad. Demolished by the train, which was derailed, the truck, strewn wreckage, dinner pails, clothing and shovels for 100 yards along the track.

Fear Trapper Killed During Snow Storm

West and South to Gain Congress Seats, Census Figures Indicate

Washington.—(P)—Reporting a continued "westward movement" of population matched by heavy gains in the south, the census bureau advised President Roosevelt today that, on the basis of the 1940 census, California was entitled to three additional seats in the house of representatives and seven other states to one more each.

Ten states, most of them in the Mississippi valley area, each would lose one of their house memberships.

All the calculations were based on existing apportionment laws and final tabulation of returns from last April's census, which showed a total population for the continental United States of 131,689,275. The 1930 census counted 122,775,046.

States listed for gains of one house seat each were: Arizona, Florida, Michigan, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon and Tennessee.

States with similar losses: Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania.

The reapportionment would apply to the seventy-eighth congress convening Jan. 3, 1943.

California's gain would give it a delegation of 23, a tie with Ohio for the fourth largest. Ohio's population was given as 6,907,612 and California's as 6,907,367. New York continued to lead the field with a

The foremost blue award winners were: Robert Bolen, 19, Laurens, Iowa; Veneta De Witt, 15, Milford, Iowa; Vernon Duncan, 16, Siler City, N. C.; Edith Reynolds, 17, Seminole, Okla., and Tom Wiley, 17, Ashland, Ohio.

CAMACHO ADDRESSES MEXICAN PEOPLE—In a colorful ceremony reminiscent of the days of General Porfirio Diaz, General Manuel Avila Camacho took the oath of office as president of Mexico for the 1940-46 term. In his inaugural address Camacho pledged Mexico's aid in the defense of the Americas. The names on the wall behind Camacho are those of national Mexican heroes.

Cruiser, 2 Destroyers Waiting for President

Miami, Fla.—(P)—President Roosevelt arrived here today to sail into the Caribbean, with only a general idea, it was said, where the cruise might take him.

He indicated, however, that the odyssey had a serious purpose by telling a press conference shortly after a special train pulled in from Washington that there was not going to be much fishing. That fishing stuff is the bunk, Mr. Roosevelt assured.

Aboard Roosevelt train enroute to Miami, Fla.—(P)—President Roosevelt rode down the Atlantic seaboard toward Miami today to sail into the Caribbean in search of rest, fish and information on defenses vital to the protection of the Panama canal and segments of the North and South American coasts.

The cruiser Tuscaloosa waited at Miami with two escort destroyers to take him on a trip whose details still were an official secret.

There was little expectation that the president would make a systematic checkup on all the south Atlantic and Caribbean sites for naval and air bases acquired from Great Britain. But it was understood he might inspect some of them. And there was a possibility he might turn up for maneuvers of units of the Atlantic patrol force near Puerto Rico next week.

Theodore H. Springer, 67, 724 N. Fair street, died at 2:25 yesterday afternoon of injuries suffered when he was struck by a car driven by Harvey G. Kittner, 1403 N. Clark street, on W. Wisconsin avenue Saturday evening.

The death is the sixth traffic fatality in Appleton and the twenty-fifth in the county thus far this year. An inquest will be held, according to Raymond P. Dohr, district attorney. The coroner's jury called yesterday includes Maurice Peerenboom, Joseph Drexler, Charles Huesmann, Jr., Ferdinand Radtke, John Gillespie and Mathew Melchior.

Springer was pushing a 2-wheel laundry cart west on Wisconsin avenue when he was struck from behind by the Kittner car, according to a police report. The accident occurred about 6:30 in the evening during a heavy snowstorm.

Born in Appleton June 23, 1873, Springer lived here practically all his life. He was a member of St. Theresa church and the Holy Name society.

Survivors are the widow; one daughter, Viola, Appleton; six sons, Carl, Menasha, Theodore, Walter, Raymond, William and George, Appleton; two sisters, Mrs. Henry Burdick.

Asks Colonists to Stick to Farms

Anchorage, Alaska.—(P)—An Alaska legislator called upon the Matanuska colony settlers today, in the face of a government agency eviction threat, to stick to their farms to "prove whether you are American citizens or poons."

The admonition came from Attorney Almer J. Peterson, who was elected to the territorial legislature after advocating cancellation of all debts to the government in the federally-founded colony. Contending the debts are too high and can not be paid off by the settlers, he called a mass meeting here Wednesday.

Residents of the Matanuska valley anxiously awaited developments over refusal of some colonists to make even a token payment on the first installment of their land purchase contracts by last Sunday's deadline.

Dr. Herbert Hansen, manager of the Alaska Rural Rehabilitation Corporation, threatened yesterday to oust colonists who ignored requests for payments.

"If they were sincere," he told the Anchorage Times, "they could at least pay $5 and arrange for future payments. . . . specially when they are buying new cars, go to the movies continually, living comfortable lives. . . ."

The development was in line with President Roosevelt's recently expressed wish that the commercial air lines would not expand their schedules while planes were needed urgently by the army and navy. Secretary Stimson had asked the priorities board of the defense commission to prevent any such expansion.

Air Transport Lines Agree to Turn Plane Motors Over to U. S.
Washington.—(P)—The army's warplane program got an immediate boost today in the form of badly needed aircraft engines.

The nation's transport lines agreed to turn over to the air corps a consignment of new engines, ordered some time ago for commercial use and already delivered. The consignment will make possible the immediate completion of an unspecified number of military planes which now lack motors.

The commercial flying firms also agreed to release to the military services during 1941 approximately $7,500,000 worth of equipment which the air lines had ordered with a view of expanding their services.

Mercury to Rise; Light Snow Coming

Appleton inhabitants peeked out at their thermometers this morning, looked startled, and then chose heavier gloves before setting out.

They had good reason to look astonished at the mercury's level. Today was the coldest Dec. 3 in Appleton in at least 20 years, probably longer. The official minimum was 14 below zero at 7:30 this morning. By noon the mercury was still a couple degrees under the zero level.

The wave of sub-zero cold that swept over Wisconsin today established records for this time of the year in several parts of the state and set the official daily low mark for the nation, 34 degrees below zero at Lone Rock, Wis.

The Milwaukee weather bureau today predicted fair skies and continued arctic temperatures throughout the day, with increasing cloudiness, light snow, and rising temperatures late tonight and Wednesday, according to the Associated Press.

According to unofficial thermometers, Pigeon Falls, situated in Trempealeau county in the western edge of the state, was the coldest spot in Wisconsin with a -38. Blair, in the same neighborhood, reported -37.

Wilmer Schlafer of Appleton, who keeps weather records, reported that this morning's -14 was by far the coldest reading up to Dec. 3 for any year during the last 20.

-8 Was Nearest
The nearest approach to this morning's stiff reading was -6 on Nov. 29, 1929. During the last 20 years, below-zero temperatures have been recorded only five times up to Dec. 3, Schlafer said.

From Waverly beach, it was reported Lake Winnebago is frozen over as far as the eye can see. The cold wave means that the heavy snow which fell last week is being kept intact.

Residents of Appleton and vicinity expected near-zero weather last night, but it was obvious early in the evening that the mercury would sink lower than that. Fuel companies stepped into their busiest period of the season today. Taxis and wreckers were kept humming as a number of car owners found their machines wouldn't "budge" this morning. There was a rush to service stations to check and-tune solutions in car radiators.

Low points in Wisconsin were:
Lone Rock -34; Rhineland -30; La Crosse, Eau Claire, and Park Falls -19; Stevens Point -18; Monroe and Wausau -16; Appleton -14; Oshkosh and Superior -15; Janesville -14; Kenosha, Marinette, Madison, and Iron Mountain, Mich., -12; Manitowish -11; Green Bay -13; Milwaukee -8; Ironwood -18; Oconto -13; Fond du Lac -17.

Airport thermometers in Milwaukee, Madison and La Crosse gave readings below those registered at government meteorological stations in those cities. The low point at the Milwaukee county airport, situated on the far southside of the city, was -12. The minimum at the Madison airport was -16 and at La Crosse -26.

47-Year Mark
The frigid blast, coming so early in the season—winter does not begin officially until Dec. 22—was the worst Milwaukee has experienced in 47 years. The mercury dropped to nine below zero on Dec. 1, 1893. The city's early season record, 14 below, was established Nov. 29, 1875.

A mass of cold air, drifting down from the Canadian Arctic regions, was responsible for the wave. It was centered over eastern Iowa and Wisconsin today.

Green Bay reported that virtually all WPA projects were shutdown. Heavy snowplows were put in service on Brown county town roads to clear drifts piled up by high winds of yesterday.

Trains were an hour behind schedule at Marinette. Green Bay also reported passenger train delays, while freights operating out of that division point were carrying reduced tonnage because the cold stiffened running gear of the rolling stock.

One fatality resulting from the unusual weather—heavy snow and mid-winter cold—was reported

Begin Trial in Slaying Of Collection Manager

Milwaukee.—(P)—Testimony in the trial of Joseph Eljowski, 43, charged with the slaying of James Rowan, 27, manager of a collection agency, was scheduled to begin today.

A jury of seven men and five women was selected yesterday. The jurors will visit the scene of the shooting this morning, and return to the court of Municipal Judge Max W. Nohl to serve until the completion of the trial.

Rowan was shot to death in the agency's offices last Sept. 28. Eljowski told the police that he had quarreled with Rowan over the surrender of an insurance policy as security for payment of a debt.

Eljowski was charged with 2nd degree murder.

Nash Workers Lose in Ruling By High Court

3 Plants 1 Unit in Strike; Teacher Wins in Tenure Battle

Madison—(P)—The state supreme court ruled today that the Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha plants of the Nash-Kelvinator Corporation were a "single establishment" and a labor dispute at any one of them automatically disqualified employees of the others from receiving unemployment compensation during a strike period.

The court's decision, written by Justice Chester A. Fowler, affirmed rulings of the industrial commission and Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann of Dane county.

The case came before the high court on the appeal of three employees, two from the Kenosha plant and one from the Milwaukee plant, who claimed they were entitled to unemployment compensation when strikes at the Racine and Kenosha plants blocked operations.

Claims of approximately 5,000 employees for payments totalling about $300,000 were involved in the three cases.

Tenure Law Ruling
The Schenk law which exempted teachers in one room schools from the 1937 tenure act did not apply to teachers who already had acquired permanent tenure, the state supreme court held today.

The tribunal affirmed a circuit court decision which found that the town of Red Springs in Shawano county had illegally discharged Mrs. Marvin Schmidt, who taught in the town school for 16 years.

By the decision she was restored to her rights as a teacher and granted back pay amounting to about $700.

The original tenure law provided that all teachers who had served for five years in a single school district could be dismissed only for cause and after a public hearing.

Efforts to repeal the law during the 1939 session of the legislature were unsuccessful, but the Schenk law was enacted to meet the objections of rural districts.

Called Law Retrospective
Mrs. Schmidt taught until the end of the 1939 school term when the town of Red Springs decided not to renew her contract. The Schenk law became effective July 1, 1939, and the town claimed it was retrospective.

The supreme court ruled that this law was only an amendment to the 1937 act and there was nothing in it to indicate the legislature intended to alter the status of teachers who already had acquired tenure.

The supreme court held today that the granting of aid to dependent children, commonly known as a mother's pension, constituted public relief in determining the legal settlement of the recipients.

Milwaukee county was the victor in a case against Waukesha county to recover the cost of supporting a family which had moved from the city of Waukesha.

The supreme court's decision was controlling in another case brought by Jefferson county against Dodge county and established a rule which will guide the state welfare department in future cases.

Seek $2,000,000 Increase in Wisconsin's Welfare Budget

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Increasing demands upon the state social security program during the early winter season today represented bad news for the state government budget makers who are trying to project the state's welfare costs for the next two years.

The state welfare department reported that at the end of October the old age assistance case load stood at $2,703, an increase of practically 400 over the previous month, and the second highest monthly increase this year. Later this week Director Frank Klode of the state welfare department will lay his estimates of financial requirements of the program before Governor Hall at the capitol.

It has already been unofficially estimated that the steady increase in pension demands will necessitate an increase over the $8,000,000 granted by the last legislature for the present two year period to more than $10,000,000 for the new biennial budget.

Moreover, it was reported that the average grant to old age pensioners has been increased in Wisconsin. The average is now about $22.75 a month. At the same time benefits to dependent children have risen, now averaging $38.12 per family unit.

Figures on caseload and average payments on old age assistance in the counties of the northeastern Wisconsin section of the state were published today as follows:

County	Caseload	Average
Brown	650	$19.10
Calumet	204	19.60
Manitowoc	629	21.74
Outagamie	884	21.20
Shawano	633	19.58

Madison — (P)—Governor Hall, upon recommendation of the state pardon board, granted absolute pardons yesterday to four persons and commuted the sentence of another.

Those granted absolute pardons were:

Elroy G. Smith, convicted of petty larceny in Waukesha county municipal court Aug. 5, and sentenced to six months in the Milwaukee county house of correction.

William Lodin, convicted in Polk county municipal court Aug. 23 for violating state fishing laws and fined $10 and costs.

The three month sentence of Joseph J. Warzyn, convicted in Chippewa county municipal court Sept. 27 on a charge of reckless driving, was reduced to two months.

Salvation Army Seeks Yule Fund

Organization Hopes To Raise $500 to Pay For Christmas Baskets

Adjutant T. A. Raber, head of the Appleton Salvation Army unit, today said the army hopes to realize about $500 from its Christmas kettle program.

The Christmas kettles have been placed on College avenue at the Oneida and Appleton street corners and can be identified this year by blue shelters which have been placed to protect the army workers from the weather.

Adjutant Raber said the Salvation Army hopes to distribute about 100 Christmas baskets to needy families in Appleton but the number will be reduced if sufficient money to finance the program is not realized from the kettles.

Salvation Army food baskets will be delivered to the families on Christmas eve, presents from the good fellows of Appleton through the Salvation Army. The Appleton relief department again will be used as a clearing place for the baskets to prevent duplication by other mercy organizations.

Gets 7 Years in Prison On False Check Charge

Keokuk, Ia. —(P)—George F. Delaney, 32, alias Patrick M. Kelly, yesterday was sentenced to seven years in Fort Madison penitentiary on a charge of drawing and uttering a false check.

Delaney, after marrying and deserting a Keokuk girl, was arrested in New York City on a charge of passing a $350 false check.

He escaped from Police Chief E. C. McPherson in Chicago, Ill., while being returned, but later was arrested in Madison, Wis., and brought here.

RESCUED BOY RECOVERS—Billie Rampton, three and a half years old, was placed in a Seattle hospital to recover after he was rescued from the bottom of an unused well in which he fell while playing near his home. He was missing for two days. Shortly before he disappeared he had told his mother that he was going to "run away" but she dismissed it as childish prattle.

British Turn Tables In Mediterranean Area

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—(P)—The initiative in the battle of the Mediterranean—the outcome of which is of such vast importance that it may spell either victory or defeat for Britain in the war—has definitely passed from the axis powers to England, at least for the moment.

More accurately and fairly, let us say that the initiative has passed to England and her little ally-Greece. For it is the smashing Greek defeat of the invading Italians that has linked together a chain of adverse circumstances which has been flung about Mussolini's neck.

An indication of the fullness of Britain's determination to knock Italy out of the war was given by Lord Woolton, minister of food, in a speech yesterday. He said that the offensive "will mean a drain on the country's shipping facilities" for the movement on troops overseas and that therefore he must eliminate those imports "which are not essential for the prosecution of war."

"We have been much too patient for much too long, even before the war started," he declared, "in submitting to the blistering bounce of the Italian pseudo-dictator. There is every reason to hope that before long we shall find ourselves settling old scores and to that end we have to mobilize the whole resources of the country."

Egyptian Protest
A significant sign of the greatly altered position was given yesterday in the formal protest made by Egypt to Rome against the Italian bombing of Egyptian cities. To my mind this action could only mean that Britain is ready for a showdown with Italy, since relations between England and Egypt are closer than crossed fingers.

Simultaneously, out of the blue, Britain signed a financial agreement with Spain, indicating a betterment of relations. This comes on top of the pressure Messrs. Miller and Mussolini have been putting on Spanish Generalissimo Franco to join them. One of the axis aims has been to secure the use of Spanish territory as a base for an assault on Britain's great fortress of Gibraltar.

Because of its importance it is necessary for me to repeat that Britain's acquisition of Greek naval and air bases—notably the great island of Crete—has completely altered the strategic picture in the Mediterranean. If Duce could have done the axis no greater disservice had he deliberately tried.

The possession of Crete has given England a superb base right in the heart of essential operations. It has vastly shortened Britain's lines and enabled her to strike in every direction. The results:

The British report today that Italy's fortified Dodecanese islands—valuable bases just east of Crete—are now being effectively blockaded.

English planes which they couldn't reach satisfactorily before.

May Lose Albania
Italy's lines of communication with Albania are being plastered so vigorously that the fascists are in danger of losing Albania altogether, thereby abandoning a vital base for operations in the Balkans.

The British blockade is increasing its weight on all Italian communications with Africa. As I have indicated before, the fascist armies in Africa are virtually cut off from all supplies and reinforcements from the mother country. Thus the position of Marshal Graziani, commanding the Italian forces which months ago undertook to invade Egypt from Libya, is now rendered increasingly unstable.

Actually, the great offensive against Egypt has been marking time for reasons which might easily be connected with that fierce blockade. You can't wage war across the blistering sands of a desert without water and other supplies.

Meantime the British have been moving troops into Egypt to cope with the numerical superiority of the Italians, who so far as I am informed still exist. Warplanes and tanks also have been shipped to Egypt.

With all this, reports continue to pile up of a growing pro-British sentiment in the great French colonies of northern Africa. There are large French military forces there which could help Britain in a drive against the Italians if they wished.

And little Haile Selassie, ex-emperor of Ethiopia, has been busy in the Sudan getting his people set for revolt.

This accumulation of circumstances has resulted in the British offensive.

Valley Leads In Output of State Cheese

Break All Records For Production in 1939; Figures Show

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—East central Wisconsin continues to maintain its position as the principal cheese producing region of the No. 1 cheese producing state of the nation, newly compiled figures on 1939 cheese production in Wisconsin today disclosed.

The east central section, including principally the Fox river valley counties, turned out about 101,000 pounds of the total of 370,430,000 pounds of cheese of all varieties made in the state last year, the state crop reporting service said.

The year 1939 broke all records for production of cheese, it was pointed out.

The east central counties also produced the largest share of all the American cheese made in Wisconsin, 96,000,000 pounds of the total of 264,000,000, or more than one third.

Figures on American and total cheese production in those counties were given as follows today:

County	American	Total
Brown	12,753,000	13,718,000
Calumet	7,983,000	7,983,000
Door	4,638,000	4,638,000
Fond du Lac	7,083,000	10,606,000
Kewaunee	11,244,000	11,245,000
Manitowoc	15,236,000	15,494,000
Outagamie	13,226,000	13,226,000
Sheboygan	16,107,000	16,465,000
Winnebago	7,325,000	7,399,000

Production in pounds for other counties in northeastern Wisconsin, in the vicinity of the Fox river valley, were reported as:

Shawano	16,872,000	17,028,000
Waupaca	8,894,000	8,894,000

Express Company Head Fatally Wounds Self

New York—(P)—Steele Mitchell, 42, president of the Adams Express company, is dead—an apparent suicide, police say.

He died last night in Lenox Hill hospital after being found in his Fifth avenue apartment, a bullet wound in his temple.

Detective Lieutenant Vincent Kiernan said Mitchell "apparently had shot himself."

Mitchell's wife, Mrs. Herma Lou Mitchell, could advance no reason for his act; no notes were found to explain it.

Good Weather for Skiing but Be Careful, Red Cross Says

With weekend snowfall making slopes ideal for skiing, the Outagamie county chapter of the American Red Cross today cautioned skiers to look sharply for skiing dangers and hazards.

The Red Cross said because skiing is a comparatively young sport, enthusiasm by far outweighs skill and the result is frequent accidents which might be prevented. Beginners should learn the sport from experienced skiers because the unsupervised novice usually falls into habits which may result in dangerous accidents, the Red Cross advises.

To skiers planning to make their first excursions the Red Cross urges attendance at first aid and accident prevention classes.

Fatigue is one of the major factors in skiing accidents. The Red Cross advises skiers to tone the muscles and develop "wind" before attempting anything ambitious. Severity of injuries usually is in proportion to the speed of the skier so don't start down a slope without knowing how to "put on the brakes."

Dangerous risks are foolhardy and always remember that the descending skier has the right of way, the Red Cross stated. Blind turns should be rounded at reduced speed. The Red Cross warns that melting snow in the midday sun is apt to freeze during the late afternoon, creating perilous hazards.

Advertising at Less Than Cost Does Not Violate State Law

Madison—(P)—The supreme court ruled today that the mere advertising of merchandise at less than cost was not a violation of the 1939 unfair sales act, known as the "loss leader" law.

The decision, written by Justice Edward T. Fairchild, reversed a ruling by Superior Judge Roy H. Proctor, who had found the Twentieth Century market of Madison guilty of violating the statute.

The high court, however, did not pass upon the constitutionality of the act. The decision said: "We follow the rule that the constitutionality of a law should not be determined except in cases where the question is necessarily presented and the court has the benefit of full argument upon the issues to be affected."

Rosecrance to Talk on Classroom Guidance At Teachers Meeting

Francis Chase Rosecrance, professor of education at Northwestern university, will address the teachers of Appleton at the banquet sponsored by the Appleton Education association Wednesday evening.

Professor Rosecrance will speak on guidance in the classroom. Teachers will dine at 6:30 o'clock at the Trinity Lutheran church.

Community singing will be led by Clem Ketchum, head of the science department at Appleton High school. Werner Witte, vice principal of the high school and president of the A.E.A., will preside.

He is the author of several monographs on education and a member of the yearbook committee of the National Society for the Study of Education. He has also written monographs for the office of education at Washington, D. C.

As a member of the board of education for the Evanston Y.M.C.A. Professor Rosecrance has done extensive field work in his profession. He has been the supervisor of street trades for Milwaukee and the director of the life advancement bureau for the Milwaukee public schools.

War Situation Today

Pope Asks Christmas Truce; Nazis Report 18 Ships Sunk

Pope Pius XII urged the warring nations today to observe a Christmas truce to keep "the clash of arms from drowning out the angel chorus of peace."

Even as his appeal went out, the Germans announced that Nazi U-boats yesterday sank 18 ships totaling 144,247 tons and probably two others totaling 16,000 tons in slashing new inroads on Britain's vital sea-borne commerce.

Simultaneously, Mackay radio in New York picked up a distress call saying the steamer Salvonia was being attacked by an airplane about 300 miles due west of the Irish coast.

The pope asked the belligerents to call a Yuletide truce "spontaneously or by mutual accord" so that "new bloodshed may not disturb or miserably extinguish the heavenly joy of that hour."

Only last week, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill rejected a suggestion in the house of commons that an attempt be made to arrange a Christmas truce.

Hitler's high command reported 15 merchant ships and the 17,000-ton British auxiliary cruiser Caledonia were sunk.

"It is probable," the Nazi communiqué added, "that two other ships belonging to the convoy, totalling 16,000 tons, were also sunk."

In addition, the high command said, another German undersea raider sank "two armed enemy merchantmen" totalling 21,247 tons.

Amid these heavy new blows, the London admiralty acknowledged that 22 merchant ships totalling 87,975 tons were sunk "by enemy action" in the week ended Nov. 24, or 24,000 tons above the weekly average since the start of the war.

"It is a serious menace," a British naval spokesman admitted, "but as a nation we can stand the knocks."

British R. A. F. bombers, in far-ranging night raids, struck at Naples, on the Italian west coast; Augusta, fascist naval base in Sicily, and pounded the German U-boat base of Lorient on the French coast.

Other R. A. F. planes roved up the Norwegian coast to smash at German shipping, the London air ministry said, and bombed "an enemy supply ship," hit another ship, and set fire to the wharves at Feje Island.

Hitler's warplanes passed up London entirely from dusk to dawn, concentrating on the English west coast port of Bristol, chief port of entry for United States war supplies, in a six-hour assault that left a trail of destruction.

It was the third time in less than 10 days that Bristol has been the target of Luftwaffe fury.

More and more, it appeared that the axis now is concentrating on an attempt to blast England's ports and shipping.

In the 37-day-old Balkan war, Athens dispatches said Greek shock troops seeking to crush or trap the last Italian armies in southern Albania were "driving the fascists back past Porto Edda, about 12 miles inside Albania."

The Greeks said the legion was backed to the belghel around Delvina, five miles northeast of Porto Edda.

The Italian high command, in its daily war communiqué, merely noted that "Greek attacks and counter-attacks took place on the fronts of the ninth and eleventh armies."

As pictured by the Greeks, the 100-mile battlefield now runs roughly as follows:

From near Porto Edda northeast to Delvino; thence through the Argirocastro sector to Politzani mountain, just north of the Greek-Albanian border near Suranta, eastward and north inside Albania through Polena to the region north of Pogradetz and Lake Ochrida of the Yugoslav border.

A Greek government spokesman said the "most important" gain was the blow at the Italians' seaward flank at Porto Edda.

Dispatches from the Yugoslav-Albanian frontier said Greek units at the northern end of the fighting line were driving two spearhead down valleys leading toward Elbasan, an important mid-Albanian base, only a few miles south of the capital.

Meanwhile, a survey of the strategic eastern Mediterranean island of Crete showed that British and Greek forces had turned it into a armed camp.

Blind Man Walks Off With Honors in Shoot

Evansville, Ind.—(P)—At a turkey shoot, a friend stood beside blind John Grassman, directed him how to aim a rifle and told him to "shoot the bull's eye."

Grassman pulled the trigger and did just that. He took home a 12 pound turkey for Christmas.

Olive church next Sunday night.

Four church bazaars are being held this week, three today and one Wednesday. Those in progress today are at First Methodist, First Congregational and St. John Evangelical and Reformed churches, while the fourth will be Wednesday at First English Lutheran church.

A testimony meeting of First Church of Christ, Scientist, will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at the church. Last Sunday morning the lesson-sermon was on "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced." The following passage was read from the Bible: "Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places."

State Turns Attention To Soil Conservation

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth of a series of articles describing some of the lesser-known divisions of the Wisconsin state government.)

Post-Crescent Madison bureau Madison—One of the newest departments of the state government, but one which is growing rapidly and is of great potential importance, is the state soil conservation committee.

The basic economic activity of Wisconsin is agriculture, and the basis of a relatively prosperous farm community in the state is good soil. Because of growing interest in and recognition of the value of soil conservation and erosion control, the sphere of action of the new state department is constantly widening. That its program during the next two years will be greatly expanded was indicated when Governor Heil the other day announced that he would recommend to the legislature a doubling of its appropriation.

Health Board Work Outlined

Dr. Neupert Speaks Before Meeting of Appleton Lions Club

The history, structure, and responsibilities of the Wisconsin state board of health were described by Dr. C. N. Neupert, assistant state health officer, before the Appleton Lions club yesterday noon at the Conway hotel.

Since the board was founded 64 years ago, its duties have been steadily increased, the speaker said, until today it has eight licensing divisions under its control, involving some 51,000 individual licenses.

As an example of the number of establishments which the state board is expected to regulate, Dr. Neupert pointed out that the board's inspection and licensing work includes 12,000 restaurants and 10,000 beauty shops.

"We very rarely revoke licenses," Dr. Neupert said. "Only in extreme cases and only after repeated warnings have been ignored will the state board of health take a license away."

The assistant state health officer described the improvements in health work in the state and the widening scope of the board's jurisdiction, declaring, "The board issues orders very rarely. There is no sense in doing things in a strong-armed manner unless the people, through education, are with you."

Finds Housework Harder Than Newspaper Work

McComb, Miss. — (AP) — It's said the newspaper business is a tough game for a woman — that a woman's place is in the home.

But Editor Elizabeth Millard of the Pike county Herald, who's gone unscathed from her journalistic experiences, reported that as a result of her duties in the kitchen since she married recently she:

Cut one finger peeling potatoes; scraped another digit grating nutmeg; scalded the other hand in dishwater; bruised her hip falling down the kitchen steps.

Health Trailer Of WATA Will Visit Shiocton

Tuberculosis Clinic Will be Conducted As Seal Sale Award

The fluoroscope trailer of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association will be in Shiocton Tuesday, Dec. 10, according to Miss Marie Klein, county nurse. Clinic hours will be from 9 to 11:30 in the morning and from 1:30 to 3:30 in the afternoon at the Shiocton High school.

The tuberculosis detection program is being conducted as a prize for the village's showing in the 1939 Christmas seal sale. Under the direction of Mrs. Leo Kling, who has been reappointed chairman of the 1940 seal in Shiocton, the city showed an increase of 258 per cent over the 1938 campaign.

Those particularly urged to attend the clinic are persons who have been in close contact with anyone having tuberculosis, any positive reactors to the tuberculin skin test, and persons recommended to the clinic by their family physicians. Miss Klein has suggested that anyone planning to attend make an early appointment.

The clinic is one of the health services made possible through the sale of the penny seals. This year the tiny messengers of health were sent into all homes in the state Nov. 25.

26 Contagious Cases Reported During Week

Twenty-six cases of contagion were reported in Outagamie county during the week ended Nov. 23, according to information received by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, from the state board of health. Ap-

Council to Hear Report on Two Building Jobs

Garage, NYA Shop May be Discussed At Session Tonight

Kaukauna—Now that the budget for another year has been disposed of, the council will get back to the routine allowing of bills and receiving of committee reports at its session tonight in the municipal building.

Overdue is word from the ordinance committee on an amendment to the police pension ordinance which the council Sept. 6 directed it to draw up and present. The amendment is to make it impossible for a pensioner to take another job, and will allow the council to call in a pensioner for light duty.

Process of the NYA workshop and the county's garage on the island is expected to be reported on. At the last session aldermen had some complaints to make about the former project. The county is rushing its new garage to completion. The site, on the north side of the quarry, was donated by the city, which obtained the land in a trade with Kaukauna Lumber and Manufacturing company.

Reports will be received from the electrical department, chief of police and city treasurer.

Material Arrives For Training Shop

Kaukauna—Two carloads of steel and other material for the NYA workshop have arrived in the city. Elmer Grebe, Outagamie county NYA supervisor, said yesterday. About 35 men are working on the job.

The government is taking bids on erection of the pre-fabricated structure. William T. Sullivan, vocational school director, said yesterday.

Lecture by Haas Is Postponed to Dec. 12

Kaukauna—The lecture in the series being given by Grant C. Haas, Madison current events expert, scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 12, it was announced this morning. At that time Haas' topic will be "Japan Grasps at Opportunity." Following the topic he will analyze and interpret the news of the week and answer questions.

82 Foreign Ships Tied Up in U. S. Ports Could Help British

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—With England desperate for merchant ships, it has been suggested within this government that some way should be found to turn over to the British a large number of foreign ships which lie tied up in our ports.

These are idle ships which have been driven into refuge in American ports by the war. They are of use to anybody now, earning nothing for their owners, a deadweight loss. At this time there are 82 of these vessels that have been tied up for two months or more, waiting for the war to end. Two are German ships, 27 are Italian. The Danes have 34 tied up, the French 12, the Norwegians 8, and the remainder are scattered among little countries that have disappeared, such as Belgium and the Baltic countries.

The British are so desperate for shipping that they are undertaking to build shipyards over here, and to buy everything we will sell. Our own merchant marine has been stripped down below where it should be. With this condition, it seems ridiculous to allow technicalities to keep so much needed shipping tied up in idleness here.

Some Americans are proposing that we repeal the neutrality act, or amend it so that American ships can start carrying supplies to Great Britain. Efforts to that end will be made in the new congress. Can you imagine us sending out American ships to be shot at while a big fleet of perfectly good vessels of German, Italian and other foreign registry is hiding safely in our ports?

The point is that Britain is desperately in need of shipping. Cries for more bottoms are going up in common. Because of the shortage of shipping, the British food ministry has tightened down again. Fresh fruits from overseas will have to be given up and further restrictions on meat are in sight. More and more people are being fed in communal canteens. Condensed meat is being restricted. Cargo space must be conserved by extreme measures.

Next 3 or 4 Months Will See Greatest Need

The British are putting in heavy shipbuilding orders in this country. A program of 120 cargo ships is in mind. Our own ship-building facilities are so taxed that Britain is negotiating to build her own shipyards in this country. But all of that won't produce ships for the next 18 months. What England needs is shipping now, this month, next month and for the next three or four months. Those are the critical months—the period immediately ahead.

To allow this grave need to go unfulfilled while idle shipping of foreign registry is tied up in our harbors is senseless. It would be

Enrolment in Night School At Record High

Room for More in Five New Classes Launched Last Week

Kaukauna—Enrolment in the evening classes at Kaukauna Vocational school is the largest it has ever been at this time of the year, William T. Sullivan, director, reported yesterday.

Every room in the municipal building school is occupied five nights a week, and in addition classes are held in the annex, on E. Wisconsin avenue, four nights a week.

Five new evening classes began last month. They are bookkeeping, Thursday nights; painting and decorating, Thursday nights; masonry, Wednesday nights; cosmetology, Tuesday nights; blue print reading, Tuesday nights. There is room for a few more in these classes, with those interested to join this week, Sullivan said.

All of the evening school classes will recess for two weeks during the Christmas season. The day school will be closed during the holiday season with the exception of the classes under the national defense program, which will close only for Christmas and New Year's days. The federal government is urging all of the schools working on this program not to interrupt progress by taking the customary two weeks vacation.

Kaukauna—A gain over October of 433 in book circulation was reported last night by Miss Bernice M. Happer, librarian, as the library board met.

The library added 47 new books to its collection, and now has 8,519. Fifty-one new readers registered and 104 were withdrawn, leaving 2,589 on the active list. Two story hours, with an average attendance of 50 children, were held last month, and two more will be held this month.

New books added to the shelves last month include "On the Long Tide," by Krey; "Ox-Bow Incident," by Clark; "Foundation Stone," by Warren; "For Our Vines Have Tender Grapes," by Martin; "Heart of a Child," by Bottoms; "Wave of the Future," by Lindbergh; "Still Small Voice," by Derleth; "River Out of Eden," by Seifert; "One Foot in Heaven," by Spence; "Listening House," by Seely; "Great Mistake," by Rinehart; "Fame Is the Spur," by Spring; "Wings On My Feet," by Henie.

Johnson Advises Close Check On Steel to Avert Shortage

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, D. C.—A shortage in steel could be a very serious matter. If you study the rising curve of actual steel production in comparison with the curve of projected defensive spending and remember that the steel industry is close to its theoretical capacity, you can get a real shock. It shows a startling shortage just around the corner.

You can't get increased capacity quickly. Alladin may have produced his jeweled oriental palace in a flash simply by rubbing a lamp, but nobody ever pulled a continuous sheet mill out of a hat. It is a matter of many months or even years. Furthermore, it is about the most costly construction there is. Finally, we already have a capacity in excess of average demand in normal prosperous times. Any panic driven extravagant increase will simply add weight to an inevitable post-war let-down.

There is only one immediate answer. It is triple-jointed, conservation plus priorities plus price-control. That is the answer, proved in the World War. But it is not an easy answer. It requires the most careful planning far in advance. It requires authority—complete, not arbitrary, but cool, sympathetic, deliberate and not subject to bum's-rushing in any panic.

If we wait until a vast and probable available shortage develops before we begin to create this essential element of national defense, just such panic and self-defeating action is certain. The World War proved that also.

As war shortages develop, every responsible producing agency, including every private industry and each defense group, begins to cover—exaggerating estimates, building up stock piles, ordering far in advance and in excess of needs. In the World War this inevitable human nature built up a spectre of shortage which, as the coming of peace proved, did not exist at all in fact.

Would Have To Show Why Steel Is Needed

Avoidance of this requires a beginning survey of actual facts and keeping it up-to-the-minute thereafter. That survey must be made by an authority fully empowered to act on them—that is to say it requires an informed, impartial, intelligent, experienced and effective editing of orders and rationing of supplies.

When Mr. A., whether in army, navy or private industry, says he must have so many tons of steel, this authority must be able to say "Show me why," and then prescribe the amount he can get and the order in which he will receive it.

We are the most wasteful people on earth, with steel as with everything else. To prevent a steel shortage we must learn to do without or to do with substitutes. In the World War we took the steel out of women's corsets (wouldn't get anywhere today) persuaded people to make their automobiles last longer, almost stopped production of new pleasure automobiles and wouldn't allow the use of structural steel for "non-war" building construction.

The extent to which this can go and the steel it can release is almost unlimited, but if it is not done wisely that extent and those effects can do more harm than good. It can't be done wisely unless it is carefully planned and even more carefully managed.

Any system of priorities will be disastrous without price control—a power to fix prices but not a power to set a "ceiling" above which they may not rise. That is so because, even if supply is rationed to defense needs and denied to clearly available uses, there will be a no-man's land of free trading in between where a shortage-market will create extravagant counter-bidding and prices will rise like rockets. Once permit that and you will have destructive price inflation.

Nazis Report 17 Ships Sunk

week ended Nov. 24, the admiralty reported today.

They were 19 British ships totaling 75,560 tons and three allied-totalling 12,415 tons.

The admiralty said the Germans claimed to have sunk 118,020 tons of merchant shipping during that week.

The week's total as reported by the admiralty was approximately 24,000 tons above the weekly average since the beginning of the war.

"It is a serious menace," a naval spokesman said, "but as a nation we can take knocks."

Shipping Minister Ronald H. Cross informed the house of commons today that Britain had placed orders for construction of 60 cargo vessels in the United States and in addition would continue to purchase serviceable American ships.

Cross assured the house that "everything possible is being done to get ships with the greatest facility" to meet the menace of axis raids on shipping—Britain's most urgent problem at the moment.

"Old but serviceable United States vessels, including vessels belonging to the maritime commission, have been and will continue to be purchased for the British flag as opportunity offers," Cross said.

Deputy Leader Clement Attlee, answering a question, said he was not aware of any proposal for either definite or implied union with the United States and that "if any such plans should approach the fringe of practical policy it could only be after prolonged discussion by the legislative bodies on both sides of the Atlantic."

His reply was to laborite Richard Stokes, who asked assurances also that "no further naval or military bases would be let to the U.S.A. . . or union be entered into or irrevocably committed . . . without the government first giving opportunity to the house for full discussion."

Mrs. Matt Rasmussen, 40, 201 E. Harding avenue, suffered a bump on the head when the car in which she was sitting was struck by a taxi driven by Albert Wyngaard, 220 N. Drew street, on State street about 6:45 last night. The Rasmussen machine was parked and Wyngaard was going south, according to a police report.

Cars driven by Frank Blick, 606 W. Wisconsin avenue, and Melvin Presten, 28, 1009 W. Brewster street, collided about 7:30 this morning. Blick was going east on Lawrence street and Presten north on Morrison street when the accident occurred, police said.

Two cars were damaged in a collision about 8:20 yesterday morning at the intersection of County Trunk G and a town road in the town of Seymour. George Kaster, 49, route 3, Seymour, was going west on County Trunk G and had stopped to allow Mel Miller, Seymour, to go by on the town road. Miller's machine skidded into the Kaster car, according to Ronald Decker, county traffic policeman.

of the Illinois Iowa Power company and a member of its board of directors; Frank G. Sutherland, secretary of Illinois Iowa; Glen D. Walley of Peoria, alleged in the indictment to have handled most of the cash which it was charged was distributed to Illinois politicians, and Edward E. Pendray. The latter two are employees of Illinois Iowa.

Named as recipients of political contributions were State Representative Lew Wallace of Mattoon; State Representative Oral P. Tuttle of Harrisburg; State Representative Harry M. McCaskrin of Rock Island; H. D. Tindall of Murphysboro; the late Herschel V. Tell, of Rushville; the late William J. Stratton, former Illinois secretary of state, who lived near Waukegan; C. H. Mullen of Knoxville, Ill. and Mark A. Saunders of Kewanee.

The indictment was returned before Federal District Judge Charles G. Rigges by Noble F. Baumann, foreman of the grand jury which has been in session here since Aug. 26.

The report charged that from 1934 to 1939, secret funds totaling at least $77,000 were raised by the utility companies through attorney kickbacks, secret construction company rebates, padded expense accounts of employees and surreptitious salary refunds.

The indictments charged that at least $9,100 of this sum was used for campaign contributions to candidates for various state and municipal public offices, while a total of at least $21,800 was paid out of the secret funds to municipal officials and politicians to secure favorable and lighting contracts.

pleaded guilty of speeding. He was arrested by city police for traveling 35 miles per hour on E. Wisconsin avenue.

population of 13,479,142 and a house representation of 45.

Despite the loss of a seat, Pennsylvania remained in second place with 9,900,180 population and 33 house members. Illinois, another loser, held third place with a population of 7,897,241 and 26 representatives.

Under the law, the census bureau was required to submit the apportionment figures to the president by the first week of December and the president in turn must communicate them to congress during the first week of the session convening Jan. 3.

The apportionment worked out by the census bureau will apply automatically unless congress acts within 60 days after receipt of the presidential message to change the present, highly-complicated formula governing the distribution of house seats.

Under the final population figures present apportionment, of 19 Wisconsin congress seats would remain unchanged. The state's 1940 population totals 3,137,587, while the population in 1930 was 2,939,006.

Judiciary Group Meets

Guesswork in the State Budget

Watching the progress of the hearings now being held in the state capitol by Governor Julius P. Heil in preparation for the governor's biennial budget message, the interested citizen must become impressed with the guess-work, the arbitrary and haphazard procedure the governor is compelled to employ under the present system in drafting his outline of state spending policies.

The department head comes in loaded down with charts and figures, tries as eloquently as he can to justify his requests for spending authorizations.

The governor looks them over casually—there are more than 100 departments and the whole process lasts about two weeks—and is practically forced to make his decision on the spot, and sometimes for what appear to be irrelevant or trivial reasons. Governor Heil, for example, last week publicly observed that the farmers elected him, and that therefore, he was going to give state farm agencies all the money they asked for.

The governor may either recommend bigger appropriations, because he is impressed with the oratory of the man asking for them, or he may cut the figures. Or he may take the most convenient course, and demand that departments continue to operate on their present budgetary allowances.

In no case, under the present arrangement, does the governor get more than a cursory conception of the uses to which the budget for which he is responsible is put. Year after year governors go through this hackneyed business, never positively assured that a department has too much, too little, or just enough for its needs.

The same indictment can be made of legislative budget procedure.

In fact, the system operates even more unfortunately with the law-makers. For while the governor has a full-time job, and has the opportunity to inspect the work of the various state departments at first hand, the legislature sits about seven months out of 24 and has no recourse, generally speaking, but to take the advice of the persons most interested, the departments themselves, and various pressure groups when it comes to making up department appropriations.

How can the governor know, for example, if the University of Wisconsin, the biggest of the state institutions, needs more money or less, when the only time that he steps on the campus is when he comes to make a speech.

How can the legislative finance committee members know about the adequacy or inadequacy of the care of patients at the Central state hospital, at the asylum at Winnebago, at the home for the feeble-minded at Chippewa Falls, when most of them have never seen the institutions?

The state budget is a biennial shot in the dark. There is no measure of its accuracy in filling state needs at present. The man with poise, eloquence or political connections is most likely to get what he wants in state funds. The others go along as best they can.

Here is a long-standing need for a state government research unit, a year-round agency staffed by competent experts who can lay before the governor and the legislature when budget-making time comes around the essential facts about all state departments.

We now have two units theoretically devoted to that job, but it remains undone. The state budget bureau somehow has failed to do it, and the state research bureau fritters away most of its time and money in partisan squabbles of no great consequence.

Strip Picketing

Whether Gerta Rozen, who threatened a new sort of picketing on the order of the Folies Bergere, was in deadly earnest or conspiring with her employers to arouse a lot of interest in a new picture may never be known. But if she proceeded entirely on her own, she certainly thought up a wow.

First of all, she was bound to attract a multitude. For some reason known best to the stars, a Lady Godiva will still out draw a top football match. When a woman announces her purpose to be unladylike she can count on a mob.

And if she were attempting to play upon the softer feelings of her employer, how could she plan things more successfully than to make them realize the shame she was facing in order to achieve an ambition that had become as of the bone marrow in her.

If Gerta originated the idea, it came out happily, and she stays out of jail, that she may threaten it again when the spirit of Bunker Hill moves her.

Inventors in America have always been a favored lot. Gerta got away with it. But let infringers beware!

One Thing We Learned From War

Little did the German Kaiser or Russian Czar realize in 1914 that their broadcasts in relation to alcohol might set off a trail of powder leading to the American magazine.

The Kaiser said that nation would win the war that consumed the least alcohol. Schnapps became verbotem beyond the Rhine. The alcoholic content of beer was greatly reduced.

Not to be outdone, the Czar declared absolute prohibition. And the Russian soldiers fought the poorest of any of the numerous nations involved.

England, in its conservative, commonsense, methodical way, continued to issue a ration of rum to its soldiers. France and Italy kept pouring wine at two messes a day. Our Congress, in advance of national prohibition, passed an act immediately after we got into war, making it a criminal offense to serve any intoxicant to an American soldier in uniform. But when the army got to France, General Pershing, the supreme court in such affairs, said the act didn't apply, and that its spirit had not crossed the ocean either. He asked American soldiers to stay away from strong drink. And most of them, proud of their uniform, obeyed without further ado.

The amount of rum fed the British soldier wouldn't hobnail the liver of a cat. Actually, alcohol had nothing to do with the conduct of the war or its result. Laws against it were employed as a part of the lofty idealism which is sometimes quite beneficial during a period of great strife and stress.

But America took it seriously. The Anti-Saloon League went to work with a vim and vigor that brought about a constitutional amendment. When the war was over, and idealism waned, the country found itself tied hand and foot.

The Gallup poll now indicates the people want no more of national prohibition. But the Anti-Saloon League is watchfully waiting. The time to strike is when the metal is soft. Whether we learned so much from our wartime experience or from the thirteen years that followed, when gun fire, thugism and general corruption nearly brought the country to its knees, is still a question.

If it may be considered that we learned that progress must come slowly in order to stay, and that temperance is progress, may we not also learn about the causes of war from that last conflict and the perpetual nature of armed strife, so long as each victor gouges the breast of the vanquished with an iron heel.

The Rumanians Packed Their Courts

One ugly horror follows another in Rumania.

But Rumanian wrongs weren't started just the other day. They have existed for long.

Rumanian courts are packed. Justice is a byword and a mockery. Is it any wonder then that when the multitude becomes hot headed it has no time for trials, evidence, rulings, arguments, juries or gaping onlookers. Nothing will do but shots. Fierce vengeance becomes all the fiercer when it is known that nothing approaching justice can be secured in courts, and that men must depend upon their own aim along a rifle barrel.

The trouble in Rumania didn't start with Codreanu, who planned the assassination of the premier. When Codreanu was shot, "trying to escape from prison," he was merely treated to a customary piece of Mexican justice that Rumania knew long before Cortez found Mexico. When the punishment for wrong takes on the action of a prowling jungle animal, what can be expected the next time the other side happens to get the draw?

If one wishes to become primary, he may say that man's greatest quest is for justice. And if he wishes to speak a solemn warning, he will announce that those who tamper with the clean and orderly flow of justice are striking deeper at the foundations of all government than they even guess.

Had the courts in Rumania not been packed in the first instance, and re-packed as every faction came to power, the people, even including the "hot headed youths," would become accustomed to waiting upon the orderly forms. There is no civilization when a man may be taken out and shot without ever finding the opportunity of pleading his cause or telling his side of the controversy.

They may put mosaic on the sidewalks in Bucharest and provide beautiful waving plumes for their generals, but that doesn't prevent a country from being part of a jungle when it apes the ferocity of jungle demenzs in mortal combat.

Their power to help me through a weary day.
Often I have been ill, and wakening,
Found you beside my bed, your gaze as well

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY ROUND

BY DEW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—What is happening in England today is a barrage of truth. Suddenly, British censors have passed a succession of news stories which admit what U. S. military observers long ago knew, that the damage in England was terrific, that airplane production had slowed down, and that British shipping was in a more desperate predicament than during some of the dark days of the first World War.

These facts also have been admitted by responsible cabinet officers on the floor of Parliament. The sudden frankness means only one thing—the British are telling us that unless they get even greater help from the United States, they may face defeat.

Actually the situation has not changed materially, except for the willingness of the British to talk about it. The odds definitely have been against the British from the very minute France surrendered. But thanks to the Greeks and the failures of the Italian fleet, British odds have improved considerably, though they are not yet 50-50.

The situation still is the same as frequently reported in this column, namely that one outside nation—the United States or Russia—could tip the war's balance one way or the other.

FOUR MASTER MINDS

Senator Joe Guffey, re-elected Pennsylvania New Dealer, is circulating a unique election trophy. It consists of a photostatic reproduction of four checks he won betting on Roosevelt against Willkie. The checks are:

Frank R. Kent, Baltimore Sun columnist, $100; Joseph Alsop, New York Herald-Tribune columnist, $50; G. Gould Lincoln, Washington Star columnist, $25; Fred W. Perkins, Scripps-Howard staff writer, $25.

Topping Guffey's circular is this caption: "Errors in judgment of political writers."

NO BRITISH LOANS

Lord Lothian's frank admission that Britain was nearing the end of her ready-cash rope was no surprise to administration leaders. They had discussed this question, behind the scenes, for some time.

In these confidential conversations the general opinion was expressed that World War history should not be repeated, and that the United States should turn thumbs down on foreign war loans. But at the same time, and far more important, there was no question that the British must get help from the United States.

In other words, Great Britain would get what she wants from the United States either through outright gifts or swapping for bases. But loans, with their post-war headaches, were ruled out. At a recent White House conference the gift-or-swap plan was vigorously advocated on the following grounds:

(1) That if the United States really means what it says, namely that Britain is the first-line of American defense and is fighting the battle of democracy against totalitarianism, then the only honest thing to do is to give Britain the planes, ships, arms and munitions she needs to wage this struggle.

(2) That the American people would far prefer such a straight-forward policy to the back-door method of repelling the Johnson act and putting financial assistance on a commercial basis.

(3) That World War history proves war loans leave a heritage of dissension, which must be avoided after the present conflict if peace is to be built on a lasting foundation.

These views highlight the little-noticed fact that no administration leader of consequence ever has advocated tampering with the Johnson act.

Several repeal bills have been introduced in congress and aroused the rhetoric of isolationists who have sought to make it appear that the measures were secret administration trial balloons. Inside fact is that New Dealers are just as vigorously opposed to repealing the Johnson act as the isolationists—though for different reasons.

FDR PRESS CONFERENCE

A little lady named May Craig, reporter for Maine newspapers, is one of the few women who regularly attend White House press conferences, and one of the most irrepressible correspondents, male or female.

She and the president broke up a recent conference with reprieve about parking. The president had said that highway projects, among others, would have to be shelved as not essential for defense.

"Mr. President," said May Craig, "in that case, what happens to the parking shoulders?"

"Parking shoulders?" said the president, plainly puzzled.

"The project," said May, "for widening parking space for civilians, so the military can get by."

"You don't mean meeking, do you?" shot back Roosevelt, and the meeting adjourned.

AMERICAN RUBBER

When a government bureau moves fast, that's news. A bureau of the department of agriculture, beginning last August, has completed a survey of potential rubber production in eleven Latin American countries and is now moving into two more.

But more important than speed, the survey is the first step in an important long-range plan to make this country independent of East Indian sources for rubber, and increase trade between the Americas. Earlier this year, congress appropriated $500,000 to the department of agriculture "to develop rubber production."

First objective is to establish two permanent experimental stations, one for Central America, the other for South America. It is almost certain that they will be located in Costa Rica and Brazil.

Brazil originally produced most of the world's rubber, but the seeds were smuggled out of the country by the British, who set up their own rubber plantations in Malaya. The present drive is to restore to Latin America her birthright in this essential product.

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—For anyone who cares two whoops what is happening to United States farms and farmers, a fascinating piece of government literature recently rolled off the federal presses.

It is called by the unappealing title of "Technology on the Farm"—but it is just about as full a survey of farm improvements and lack of improvements as the numerous bureaus of the Department of Agriculture could put together.

City folk (and I'm just like the next fellow who doesn't know a harrow from a combine) have fallen into the habit of saying that the farmer of today, with his electric lights, his radio, his telephone, the family jalopy, washing machines, hot and cold running water, indoor plumbing and a generous check from the government every year is sitting pretty on top of the haymow.

Now this is like a lot of statements that somebody who doesn't know what he's talking about picks up and passes along to other non-knowers until it gets to be sort of universal. It's about half truth and half breeze. At least that's the conclusion you'll have to come to if the agriculture department survey on farm technology is all facts.

Much To Be Done

The farmer has come a long way from the ox-drawn wooden plow and harvesting sickle and flail, but what got me in this department report is how many of these "modern farm conveniences and luxuries" seem to be potentialities rather than realities so far as the modern farm home is concerned.

When the last general survey of farm income was made in 1935-36 (and no more accurate figure will be available until the Census Bureau comes through with its breakdown on farm population figures) about one-fourth of the farm families received direct relief or had incomes under $500; a little fewer than a fourth had incomes of $1,500 or more; and the remainder, slightly more than a half, had incomes from $500 to $1,500.

With an average of 4.5 persons to the family (one more than average in cities of more than 100,000), you can start your budgeting. Take out for stuff you have to have to be a "modern" farmer—a tractor, other improved tools and machinery, better seed, fertilizer, etc.—and see what's left for telephones, radio, weekly junkets to the village movie, and such.

Without Radios

In a survey made as recently as 1938, it was estimated that 40 per cent of the farm homes were without radios. The 1930 census showed that only 34 per cent of all farmers had telephones and the boys at agriculture think the percentage has changed little since then.

Although the electric light condition is spotted, there are many sections where the kerosene lamp is still a standard fixture. In the southeast section of the country, the survey showed that even among the better-off white operators with incomes of $1,000 to $1,250, only 4 per cent had electric lights.

Let's stay in this same comparatively well-off income bracket and take a swing through a few states and see what was reported on the percentages of farmers having mechanical refrigerators: California, 64; New Jersey, 36; Washington and Oregon, 11; Colorado, Montana and South Dakota, 7; Michigan and Wisconsin, 6; North and South Carolina, 5; Pennsylvania, Kansas and Ohio, 4; Georgia and Mississippi, 2; and Illinois and Iowa, 1.

The report shows that in the whole country only 16 per cent of farm families in the intermediate income group ($500 to $1,000) had water piped into their homes and only 10 per cent had indoor toilets.

There's Plenty To Do

This sort of summarizing could go on for a long time and include such items as 40 per cent of the counties in the United States have no registered general hospitals, and 80 per cent of the lower income farm families have inadequate diets. . . . But that's enough to give you a rough idea.

THE "NEW ORDER" IN FRANCE

Editor Post-Crescent: The war in Europe has become the basis of much talk about a new order, and as usual there is a variety of definitions, depending upon one's point of view. They range from Walter Lippmann's liberalism to those who espouse the cause of terror and obscurantism.

In the Nov. 27 issue of the Post-Crescent Lippmann wrote: "This so-called new order which we have heard so much about in recent months displays not one single attribute of an order—not custom, consent, legitimacy, legality, moral authority, or even a mere partnership of give and take." Franco's Madrid Informaciones wrote: "The blood spilled by Spaniards in the recent (civil) war is the affirmation before Europe and the whole world of the triumph of the New Order in Spain, which is nothing else but the old Spanish order, eternal and rejuvenated." What a delightful prospect, especially for those who fought against imposition

The Nest Looks Better Every Day

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—An unusual fact which has been generally overlooked by political observers in the last two years is that the state highway commission members to a remarkable degree have cooperated with Governor Heil, although they are by their acknowledged allegiance to opposing parties political enemies of the executive.

Chairman William E. O'Brien of the commission is a Democrat. Secretary Thomas Pattison is a long-time Progressive Party leader in western Wisconsin, and Tom Davlin is one of the La Follette inner circle, one of the best-known and most influential men in the Progressive organization.

Yet although it is known with fair certainty that none of the commissioners voted for Heil in November, it cannot be recalled that they have done anything since the governor assumed office which publicly embarrassed him.

PLENTY OF CHANCES

That record is the more noteworthy because two of the commissioners, at least, owe Heil nothing. They were appointed by Phil La Follette. And although O'Brien was reappointed by Heil, he knows well enough that had Heil had a free of this rejuvenated "old Spanish order." But they are not the only ones betrayed by reactionary leaders.

In the November 24 issue of the Milwaukee Journal, Pertinax wrote that Laval and Petain had long planned the destruction of French democracy. After watching their antics it seems nothing is too base for these Hitlerian tools. Lest this statement seem too strong for those who have their thinking done in Royal Oak, let's look at Father Coughlin's Social Justice for Aug. 12, 1940, where we find: "That (the) cluster of certain groups) has been accomplished at the cost of a disastrous defeat to the soldiers of France. Associated with this thought is the current opinion that many important French Christians encouraged the war at this juncture as the only means available to bring about the defeat of the enemies within the borders of France." Maybe for once he knows what he is talking about.

"French Christians" What a laugh! But after all people were sucked in on a variation of the theme in Spain, so why not here. Gullibility dies hard in some groups. Petain, Laval, Baudoin, Montigny, Flaminio, what a lovely group of "important French Christians." Why, they became so imbued with the spirit of brotherly love that without a thought, except how they would be well cared for by Hitler, they sold their countrymen into slavery.

Lippmann had them rightly tagged when he wrote: "The partisans of full cooperation with the axis are obviously a small minority, almost a small conspiracy. . . . Every totalitarian group whether Communist, Fascist, Nazi, Francist, Iron Guardist, Christian Front, and let us not forget the "French Christians" are minorities who believe in the efficacy of terrorism in maintaining their rule.

Do the Lavals, the Petains, and the Coughlins really feel that France with her history of fighting for human freedom, is finally subdued? Is theirs the work of real Christians? Or might it not be that the practicing Christians (there is a difference, Father) have yet to realize what has been done to them in the name of their faith?

PELVIC STRAIN

The sacrum or base on which the weight of the spinal column and shoulders, arms and head is carried, is wedge shaped with its wide base upward. It is joined on either side to the wings of the innominate or hip bones, thus entering into formation of the pelvic girdle.

Formerly we did not consider the junction of sacrum and hip bone a true joint—we thought it was a rigid union which permitted no movement. But first the osteopaths, and then Joel Goldthwait showed the sacro-iliac junction not only permits some movement, particularly in women, but is subject to all of the disabilities of true joints, such as strain, sprain, partial dislocation (subluxation), complete dislocation, inflammation (arthritis).

Strain or sprain of the sacro-iliac junction or joint if you will occurs usually when the individual leans over and lifts, pulls or pushes something heavy. Sudden "crick" in the back that holds the victim in the cramped position is the typical manifestation of the subluxation. Sometimes, however, the pain is felt down one leg, and indeed has been mistaken for sciatica in many instances.

The pain of sacro-iliac strain or sprain is worse at night, when re-hand—that is to say if Democratic senators' goodwill was not at stake last year—a Republican would now be sitting in his place.

It is worth recognizing too that the commission has had plenty of opportunities to embarrass Heil, to embarrass him deeply, in fact; yet it has not done so. On every occasion it has done exactly as the chief wanted, as far as the public knows.

Commissioners could have made political capital, for example, out of the numerous occasions when Heil has vetoed proposed highway projects, and out of the fact that he continues to release highway funds only under the most extreme pressure from the localities because of his desire to trim highway expenditures for the sake of the general treasury.

Highway commissioners make a lot of speeches, are closely connected with powerful local highway committees and contractors organizations.

But none of them has thus far publicly mentioned the fact that the governor has so long delayed approval of a plan for matching and expending a 1939 federal highway allotment that there is actual danger now that the federal money may be forfeited. The highway department has a credit of about $1,000,000 remaining from the 1939 highway program. (Since that time 1940 and 1941 allocations have been made by Washington.) It has submitted plans to the governor's office, but the latter has repeatedly delayed, probably because the governor dislikes the idea of using a large sum of state money to match the federal grant.

DIVERSION IGNORED

The highway commissioners are professional highway promoters and builders. They are as opposed to the diversion of highway funds from the highway system as anyone else. Yet they have not used the opportunity for partisan advantage afforded by the fact that Heil has taken more from the highway budget than any of his predecessors. Continued diversion of highway funds leaves the commission practically without a job to do. There are no highways to build when there is no money. But the commission has not complained because its highway construction program has for all practical purposes been vetoed last year and this year.

All in all, the situation represents a remarkable instance of political forbearance and reticence.

cumbency brings greater tension on the sacro-iliac ligaments, but may be relieved more or less by change of position, especially by lying prone, that is, on the belly, if the sufferer can get into that position or can be turned over by attendant.

The pain and disability of sacro-iliac strain is more marked in women at the menstrual periods, because the junctions are more relaxed at that time. It is more likely to occur during pregnancy for the same reason. A precaution which every one should bear in mind, women particularly, is that lifting should be done rather with the legs and thighs, while the back is held rigid and erect. That is, don't bend over to lift, but squat down.

Prolonged sitting, especially in slouched or slumped posture, makes the pain worse. Volumes have been written about chairs or other seats and posture. We're talking about sacro-iliac strain now. Here suffice to say that a common fault is lack of suitable support to the hollow of the back in sitting or reclining.

If there is an actual displacement, subluxation of partial dislocation replacement may be effected by placing the patient prone (face downward) with chest and shoulders on one padded table, thighs and legs on another, allowing body to hang or perhaps moderately pressing down on the hollow of back. Sometimes this maneuver brings sudden relief by pulling the displaced sacrum forward on the hip bone. While the patient is still in this position a number of strips of adhesive plaster are applied overlapping across the lower back and two thirds of the way around the hips. Or a wide firm belt may be applied and worn for support, well below the normal belt line.

Curtain Call Will Present Yule Play at High School

"Come, Let Us Adore Him," a play of the nativity by Victor Starbuck, will be the Christmas production of Curtain Call, dramatic organization of Appleton High school, Thursday afternoon, Dec. 19, in the high school auditorium. Miss Ruth McKennan, head of the speech department, is directing.

The drama of the Christmas story is written in three scenes and a prologue. The text in dramatic verse will be accompanied by choral arrangements directed by Albert O. Glockzin, who leads the high school chorus. Twenty students from the chorus will be selected to sing for the production.

Preceding the prologue will be a poetic announcement and prologue setting the tone of the drama. Nancy Lou Balliet will read the announcement and Marion Jobel will read the prologue. The setting of the prologue is a living room on Christmas eve. The characters are You, an 11-year-old girl played by Sally Schiemann, and her mother, played by Elizabeth Haug. The scene closes as the child is being put to bed after hearing the story of the birth of Christ.

The first scene opens on a wild plain near Bethlehem. Around a camp fire are gathered three shepherds, Ezra, Simeon and Josiah, who will be Jean Watson, John Leonard and James Miller, respectively. They are visited by the three wise men on their way to the stable. The wise men will be Bruce Davidson, Roman Schmid and Gerold Sawall.

Scene at Inn. As the curtains part on scene two the audience will see the kitchen of the inn at Bethlehem. The characters in this scene are the innkeeper, played by David Gallaher; a boy, William, Cherkasky; Martha, the innkeeper's daughter, Rita Moraw; Julius, captain of the Roman guard, Ervin Volkman; and two Roman soldiers, Jerry Arens and Carl Rehfeldt.

The stable at Bethlehem is the setting for the final scene of the drama. Frances Galpin will interpret the role of Mary; Douglas Fox, Joseph; and Marjorie Rogers and Mary Trezise, the two angels. Miss McKennan is being assisted in the direction by student members of Curtain Call who are supervising the various parts of the play. Jean Watson has charge of the preliminary announcement and prologue. The prologue is being coached by Elizabeth Haug.

IF YOUR NOSE "CLOSES UP" TIGHT AT NIGHT

HINDERS BREATHING—SPOILS SLEEP

3-PURPOSE MEDICINE

Here's mighty good news... If your nose "closes up" at night and makes breathing difficult, put 3-purposes Vicks Vapo-nol up each nostril.

Va-tro-nol does 3 important things: (1) shrinks swollen membranes; (2) soothes irritation; (3) helps flush nasal passages, clearing clogging mucus, relieving transient congestion. It brings more comfort, makes breathing easier, invites sleep.

...And remember, it helps prevent colds from developing if used in time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Guenther, 1318 W. Second street, returned yesterday from the international horse show at Chicago.

Board Reverses Decision on 41, Tables Proposal

Superhighway Project Now May Await May Session of Supervisors

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau Oshkosh—The Winnebago county board changed its mind on highway matters yesterday afternoon and tabled a resolution passed yesterday morning by which the county board approved launching the proposed superhighway 41 through Winnebago county on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.

A motion to reconsider their resolution approving the highway construction out of the 1941 gasoline tax allotment and those funds held in reserve by the county was introduced late yesterday afternoon and was passed by a 26 to 17 vote. This motion was followed by another one tabling the highway resolution and the latter motion passed by a 27 to 17 vote. Both motions were passed without any debate by the supervisors.

Supervisor Arthur Rehbein of Oshkosh, who introduced the two motions, stated later that his reason for offering the motions was "to stop the north end of the county from getting all the road projects, especially Highway 47." The highway 47 project was to resurface and drain that road between Menasha and Appleton.

He expressed surprise when he was told that the Highway 47 project was in no manner affected by the tabling of the superhighway motion as that project was not mentioned in the resolution and was a project already approved by state highway commission, the cost to be met out of other funds held in reserve by Winnebago county.

Members of the county highway committee were undecided yesterday afternoon as to whether the superhighway proposal would be presented again to the supervisors later this week, some believing the project lost until the May session when a new county board takes office.

The project which the supervisors first approved and later tabled was to purchase the right of way and to drain and grade the relocated route from Neenah to Brooks corners, and the reconstruction of Jackson drive in the city of Oshkosh from Algoma Boulevard to New York avenue.

A separate resolution adopted by the board also yesterday morning but which was left untouched by the supervisors in the afternoon was one which transferred from the Highway 21 resurfacing project the sum of $15,324.90, of which $3,900 was to be used to build a storm sewer along Highway 150 from present Superhighway 41 to the west city limits of Neenah, and the remainder to be used in working on the proposed superhighway.

The Neenah supervisors voting in favor of tabling the superhighway resolution were Gustav Kalfans and Charles Pope, while A. J. Seithamer was the only Menasha supervisor to approve the motion to table the "pay-as-you-go" plan. Neenah supervisors Korotev, Schultz and Prebensen, and Menasha Supervisors Hecker, Howley, Landgraf, and Sonnenberg opposed tabling the motion.

The county board also yesterday afternoon approved the payment of $152 to the Outagamie Rural Normal school at Kaukauna and $912 to the Green Lake County Normal school at Berlin for tuition of students from Winnebago county but disallowed a claim of $76 for tuition

Ex-Convict in Need of Help, Speaker Says

Pardon Board Head Asks Neenah Men to Aid Former Prisoners

Neenah — "The ex-convict who has paid his debt to society is as doomed and damned as the ancient leper when he is released from prison," George E. Ballhorn, Milwaukee, chairman of the state pardon board, told the Neenah club, at the noon luncheon Monday. About 90 men attended the opening luncheon.

He pleaded with the members that "The next time an ex-convict comes to you for a job, at least listen to his story sympathetically and don't throw him out on the street."

There isn't one general agency or association in Wisconsin which is concerned with the re-establishment and rehabilitation of men who have served their terms, he declared. "What chance have these men to regain a place in society. Every road is closed to them, and there is no one to speak a kind word in behalf of some of these chaps who through environment or circumstances beyond their control became involved in trouble. They have served their terms and paid the price for their misdeeds. Can't we do something helpful for these men?"

Cites Statistics

He declared that 1,500,000 serious crimes were committed in the United States in 1938 as well as 13,000,000 lesser crimes. There were 7,514 murders the next year, and there now are four criminals to every teacher. The average sentence served for murder is less than 59 months.

"Paroles," he said, "are public scandals in many places." Distinguishing between the pardon and parole board, the attorney stated that the pardon board members must maintain a balance of sentiment and calm judgment in hearing cases, and the determination of cases rests on the records, warden's report, medical and psychiatric reports and recommendations from the district attorney and judge.

During the first 16 months of its existence, the present pardon board considered 623 applications, denied 501, granted 22, recommended 20 conditions and 29 reduction of sentences.

Catholic Boys to Open Cage Season

Neenah — The Catholic Boy conference will open its season with three games tonight at St. Mary's High school gymnasium. St. John's of Menasha will oppose Appleton. St. Mary's in the first game at 7 o'clock.

In the second game the St. Mary's Junior Zephyrs of Menasha will oppose the Holy Name team from Kimberly. The last game of the night will bring two power teams and definite rivals for top honors of the league against each other, Menasha St. Patrick's and St. John's of Little Chute.

The other opening game this week will be between two Appleton teams, St. Joseph and Sacred Heart. The league includes the same eight teams as last year and plans have been formed for a three-game schedule at St. Mary's gymnasium every Wednesday night. The dates will be changed as necessary when games are played at Little Chute or St. Joseph of Appleton. Fourteen games are included on the schedule on a home and home basis.

St. Patrick's of Menasha tied for the league championship the last two years. Last year St. Joseph, Appleton, held a share of the crown while two years ago the Kimberly Holy Name team held a share. The three Menasha parochial grade teams (and Sacred Heart of Appleton) will use the St. Mary's gymnasium as their home floor.

Red Cross Chapter Expects Record Total in Annual Campaign

Neenah — With ward and factory reports still coming in, indications point to a record enrollment in memberships for the Menasha chapter of the American Red Cross, according to Allen Adams and John Walter, co-chairmen of the drive.

Early this morning the enrollment figures reported passed the 1,000 mark. All departments showed decided gains over last year except for factory enrollment. However, the addition of a special gift committee, operating chiefly in the mills and industries, has over-shadowed the factory enrollments of previous years.

The final check-up will be made at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Red Cross office, 418 1/2 Racine street. All ward captains have been asked to attend the meeting.

Movie Land Its People and Products

MIGHTY PEN—Robert Riskin has probably given the movies' millions more laughs, thrills and heart throbs than any writer of the day. You'll agree when a few of his pictures are mentioned: "It Happened One Night" for which he won the award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences; "Lost Horizon," "You Can't Take It With You," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." He is now writing "Meet John Doe" in which Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck are starred.

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—I doubt if any other town in history ever had as many carpers, cry babies, belly-achers and a habitual self-pitiers as does this "gay and glittering" city of Hollywood.

To tour a studio, one must wade through a sea of tears. My desk is piled high with letters, my telephone is kept buzzing with calls and my reception room is crowded with visitors—all with complaints about their "ill-treatment at the hands of the industry."

It's always "dirty double-dealing" when the other girl gets the prize role or the social date with Mr. Moneybags. It's "rank favoritism" when another star gets too billing. It's "studio politics" when a contract is cancelled. And almost any grease-painted nitwit roaming the boulevards is volubly sure that the real trouble with the movies lies in the fact that HE is not getting the recognition his talents deserve.

Understand, I'm not referring to the REAL stars at the top of the list. They aren't carpers—most of them never were, even when they were newcomers, because they were too busy working for success to waste time blaming "studio politics" for their bad breaks.

I am referring to the host of "would-be's" who "never will be" because they are too egotistical to understand that hard work and self-improvement pay dividends, and that every star on top got there by effort—not by crying his way up.

The ranks of successful stars are filled with "good losers" who helped themselves along by fine sportsmanship. The ranks of the never-will-be's is crowded with "poor losers," ever ready to blame anyone except themselves for their failure.

IDOL CHATTER: None of that "best of friends" hokey for John and Elaine—they're determined to be total strangers. Peas-in-a-pod: Glynne Bradna, in her new ice rink togs, and my conception of Little Red Riding Hood. The "dese dose and dem" talk of 12-year-old Stanley Clements. 20th Century find, makes the Dead-Enders, by comparison, sound like college pros. Girl with a real inferiority complex: Alice Faye. Hollywood gance maestros, who oughta know: Anita Louise as our No. 1 rumba wiggler. Ad linguists: Dolores del Rio, at ease in Spanish, French, Italian, German and English. Those new foreign importations may not be temperamental, but they have a lot of accents.

Before a switch engine could pull the cars off the main line, traffic was delayed 30 minutes. A wrecker was used to put the engine back on the track.

Social Agency Council Sought For Appleton

Relief, Welfare Work Coordination Will be Goal of City Groups

Organization of a council of social agencies to coordinate the work of societies engaged in relief and welfare work was proposed at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. last evening. After two hours of discussion it was decided by the forty persons attending the meeting to appoint a committee to set up a statement of objectives which will be submitted to the organizations whose representatives were at the meeting. The delegates represented all of the organizations in the Appleton Relief and Welfare Council, the school system, luncheon clubs, Parent-Teachers association, boy scouts and girl scouts, League of Women Voters, Children's Aid Society and Appleton Woman's club.

The two hour discussion disclosed that it is the purpose of the proposed council of social agencies to be the medium for study and discussion of mutual problems, and the means for applying pressures to bring about desirable improvements in the administration of social work in the community. The Rev. Henry C. Head, director of charities for the Green Bay Roman Catholic diocese, said that one of the most important needs of Appleton, is a central registration agency, and urged that as one of the first tasks to be attempted by the proposed council.

Father Head described the functioning of a similar council in Green Bay, which has been in existence for about 20 years. He said that one of its most immediate benefits is that it provides a means for the workers in social and relief organizations to get acquainted with each other, and described how the council's pressure on the city resulted in the appointment of a police matron. He said the Green Bay council has no legislative power, and is merely a clearing house for social and relief problems.

Describes Work of Council
That Appleton long has had an organization which coordinates the relief and welfare work of the community was stressed by Judge Fred V. Heinemann, president of the Appleton Relief and Welfare Council, who described the work and purpose of this organization. He called the roll of member organizations, and then said that it was formed in the early thirties when most relief in the city was dispensed by private agencies. He said it has functioned all these years, and is ready to take a more active part if and when the private agencies again are called upon to bear the major portion of the relief load.

There was a strong suggestion that one of the immediate purposes of the proposed council should be a demand for a community chest in Appleton. It also was suggested that there should be freer use of school buildings after school hours for public recreation purposes, but it was stressed that the council should not commit itself to any program without investigation first.

Dr. George Douglas, assistant professor of sociology at Lawrence college, was appointed chairman to preside at the meeting, and later was elected temporary chairman to remain in charge until a permanent organization is set up. Miss Dorothy Petron, local director of the girl scouts, was named temporary secretary. The meeting was opened by Roudolph Kubitz, director of the county public health department, who also signed the call for the gathering.

Women Foresters Plan Yule Party

Little Chute—The monthly meeting of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters will be held Wednesday evening at the Forester hall. Plans will be made for a Christmas party. Members have been requested to bring their jams and jellies for the shower for St. Joseph orphanage of Green Bay to this meeting or they may be left at the homes of Mrs. Philip Molitor and Mrs. George Hietpas or at the Versteegen hardware store before Dec. 7.

The feast of the Immaculate Conception will be observed at St. John church Sunday. Masses will be said at the usual time. A meeting of the Holy Name society will be held at the school at 7:30 Thursday evening. Members of the choir of St. John church will meet for a rehearsal at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening at the church. The music for the Christmas masses will be practiced.

Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Verbrink and children of Neopit were weekend guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Doyle.

Council Meets

The Appleton Relief and Welfare Council at a meeting yesterday afternoon decided to attend a meeting last night at which a proposed county council of social agencies was discussed. The council was one of a number of social groups represented at the meeting last night.

'Finlandia' Will be Featured In School Band Concert Sunday

"Finlandia," a tone poem by the Finnish composer, Jean Sibelius, will be one of the featured numbers on the concert program of Appleton High school's band Sunday afternoon. E. C. Moore will direct. The most famous of Sibelius' works, "Finlandia" is intensely national in spirit. The poem shows strength and determination and reflects the rugged beauty of Finland itself. The arrangement which the high school band will play was made by Lucien Callet, who is the transcriber for the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra.

Another descriptive number will be the "Don Quixote" suite by S. Franck. Based on the novel by the Spanish author, Cervantes, the music suggests scenes and characters from that classic satire on chivalry. The suite opens with a scene in a Spanish village as the people are going to church. Character sketches follow of Sancho Panza, Don Quixote's practical companion, and Dulcinea, the Don's lady. The suite is concluded with one of the best known scenes from the novel, the Don's fight with the wind mills, which he imagines to be an opposing army.

"Prayer and Dream Fantasia" is extracted from scene two, act one, of the "Hansel and Gretel" opera by Engelbert Humperdinck. It is the memorable picture of the two children who, lost in the wood, kneel down at nightfall, say their prayers and fall asleep. Suddenly through the evening mists breaks a light and a staircase is seen down which the angels come to protect the children. The transcription for the band was made by Dr. Joseph F. Maddy.

Strauss Melodies

Long a favorite with concert-goers are the familiar selections from Oscar Strauss' "Chocolate Soldier." The band will play a medley Sunday which will include "Come, Come," "My Hero," "Sympathy," "Falling In Love," "The Letter Song," "That Would be Lovely," and "Forgive, Forgive."

Modernistic in treatment will be "The Courtier" by Norman North. It is a miniature symphonic poem written for full instrumentation. Especially appropriate for the holiday season will be "Silent Night," by Gruber. The band will play a special arrangement by Miss Anna Sieg, Moore's assistant. Miss Sieg's transcription is unusual in its use of the chimes. Dorothy Gerlach, soprano, will be the featured soloist.

The only instrumental solo on the program will be played by William Cherkasky on the piccolo. Cherkasky will offer "Through the Air" by Damm. Other numbers on the program will be the "Ariane Overture" by Louis Boyer, Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair, by Foster, "A Toi" by Cizbulka, prelude from "La Traviata" by Verdi, "The Album Leaf" by Wagner, "First Norwegian Rhapsody" by Melius Christensen, who is director of the St. Olaf choir, "Dance of the Hours" by Ponchielli, and "Pilot Me" by Barnhouse.

U. W. Faculty Against 2-Year Medical Course

Adopts Resolution Honoring the Late Dr. Glenn Frank

Madison—(AP)—Resolutions providing for discontinuance of the 2-year course in medicine and for committee study of general entrance requirements and secondary school preparation were adopted by the University of Wisconsin faculty at its monthly meeting yesterday.

The faculty also adopted memorial resolutions honoring the late Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the university from 1925 to 1937, and the late Alphonse Onnou, leader of the Pro-Arte string quartette, a Belgian organization now attached to the university's school of music.

The medical school recommended that the 2-year course in medicine be dropped and that only a 4-year course be offered beginning in September, 1942.

Prof. Charles Bunn presented the motion for appointment of a 9-member committee to consider entrance requirements and secondary school preparation. It will confer with a committee of principals from Wisconsin high schools.

Praise Dr. Frank
The faculty praised Dr. Frank in its memorial for his ability as an administrator, a writer and speaker on the social, political and economic problems of the nation, and added:

"This faculty, perhaps even more than the faculties of other universities, cherishes its rights of freedom—freedom of speech and freedom in educational policy. This sacred tradition becomes increasingly important as one by one we see the lights of freedom dimmed in the universities of many nations."

"To President Frank we owe much because he stood for freedom of speech and academic tenure. He fought valiantly all attacks from outside the university; he was lenient with criticisms from within. He trusted us to make our own decisions and to formulate our own policies."

"We admired him for his keen intelligence, his devotion to principle and his charming personality."

CHRONIC SICKNESS

Everyone has had the experience of becoming ill for a few days and then recovering rapidly. Many, however, have become ill, and instead of a rapid recovery, the condition continues on and on over a period of years. But why should one person recover from a certain illness quickly, while another, suffering the same condition grows rapidly worse and then continues for years to suffer without relief? The difference between the two is the difference in vitality to resist disease. This was the basis of Chiropractic from the beginning and remains today as the foundation of all Chiropractic practice. Vitality (Nerve force) is generated in the brain and delivered to every organ in the body through the nervous system. Any interference with nerves reduces vitality and permits sickness to take place. Should the interference be at the spine, which it is in the great majority of cases, chronic sickness is bound to develop, until the interference is removed. For this reason almost every type of illness common to the human body has been benefited by Chiropractic adjustments.

Ripon College Head Forgets Anti-Freeze, Thumbs His Way

Lawrence students gathered in Memorial chapel yesterday morning to hear an address by Dr. Silas Evans, president of Ripon college. He wasn't there on time. He wasn't there 15 minutes later. So the students, led by Jack White of Chicago, had a pep rally to get their cheering in shape for last night's game between Lawrence and Oshkosh State Teachers college.

In the meantime, Dr. Evans was finding out some of the hardships that college students face when they have to hitch-hike home for weekends and vacations. Yes, the Ripon college president was hitch-hiking.

He was scheduled to talk to the students on "Why We Do Things." But there was one thing Dr. Evans couldn't give the "why" for. He couldn't explain why he forgot to put anti-freeze in his car radiator.

Because he forgot, the car broke down while Dr. Evans was enroute from Ripon to Appleton. He finally gave up and thumbed his way to the Lawrence campus, arriving at the chapel 30 minutes late.

He talked for about 10 minutes.

Round Table War Feature of Club Luncheon

Members Participate In Informal Study Of U. S. Position

New London—An informal round table discussion among members on the topic, "Is This Our War," entertained the New London Rotary club at its noon luncheon meeting at the Elwood hotel Monday.

W. T. Constock, F. L. Zaig and Attorney Ormond W. Capener led the discussions. Constock, fresh from a hunting trip into Canada, gave the Canadians' point of view of the war. They consider it a disagreeable job that has to be done, he told the club, and sincerely believe that in time England will win. He said they had a cordial feeling toward the United States.

Capener maintained England was fighting the war for our democracy as well as their own and that the United States should give them all possible help short of actual war. Zaig took the isolationists' view and maintained that the United States should supply them only with what they can pay for or we would be drawn into the conflict. He was of the opinion that we can

Excavation of Park Lagoons Is Underway

Artificial Waterway Project May Require 2 Years to Complete

New London—Excavation of the Hatten park lagoons, a job which may occupy the park crew for two years before it is completed, is in full progress.

A large motor powered dragline, excavating 250 cubic yards of earth a day, has been at work the last several weeks. The machine is being rented from a Milwaukee company by the federal government, co-sponsors of the project, according to F. A. Jennings, park superintendent.

The machine has excavated half the width of a 500-foot stretch bordering the Northport road. The lagoons when completed will consist of about a half-mile of shallow man-made waterways, representing a lazy river in the rough form of a rectangle approximately 800 feet long and 400 feet wide. The ditch will be 50 feet wide and about 6 feet deep and ultimately may be banked with stone. Plans call for a road skirting the lagoons, the enclosed island to be turned into a game refuge. The dirt being excavated will be used for banking the lagoons and grading the roadway.

A crew of 28 men is at work on the project. This week they are digging out the lagoon outlet which will be 11 feet below the Northport road level. The crew also is digging up the top surface of the lagoons down to water, from where the dragline will continue. Part of the course of the lagoons was excavated several years ago to provide fill for the swimming pool.

All stone fence work has been completed along all borders and divisions of the park area, according to Jennings. A separate crew of 16 men is at work quarrying stone south of the city and another 15 New London men are at work at Manawa on that community's W. P. A. water main project. Eight men were transferred from the New London park to Manawa last week.

St. Joseph, Keshena at Lourdes, Marinette.

BY RANDY HAASE

Menasha—The Fox Valley Catholic conference will swing into action this week which will indicate where the real team power is in the league. Three teams now are tied for first place with one victory each while a fourth team will join the leaders after the game Wednesday night at Little Chute.

St. Mary's, Menasha, champions the last three years; St. Mary's, Oshkosh, and St. Peter's, Oshkosh, have scored victories in their opening games. Either Lourdes of Marinette or St. John's, Little Chute, will join the leaders after their opening tilt Wednesday night.

One of the two St. Mary's teams also will be dropped from the lead this week for the Oshkosh quintet plays at Menasha. St. Norbert of DePere also will make its first start Friday night at Oshkosh.

In addition to the battle for first place, the game between Oshkosh and Menasha Friday night practically will be a reunion for the Rev. A. S. Laque. Father Laque now is the faculty athletic director of St. Mary's High school at Oshkosh but formerly was the assistant pastor of St. Patrick's parish, Menasha. Friday night his Oshkosh team will be playing against six boys who formerly played for Father Laque on the St. Patrick grade school team.

While Our Lady of Lourdes High school, Marinette, is a member of the conference, the team is not eligible to receive the conference championship because they are playing less than the minimum nine games required by conference rules. The team entered the conference late and has only six conference games scheduled. However, the results of those games will count in the official standings.

Want Packers, Lions To Exhibit Before National Guardsmen

Camp Beauregard, La. — (AP) — The army is negotiating for a professional football game between the Green Bay Packers and Detroit Lions at Louisiana State University stadium in Baton Rouge Dec. 28, it was announced today.

Lt. Col. F. C. Standiford, adjutant of the 32nd division in training here, said the game would be in the nature of a Christmas present for the Wisconsin and Michigan national guardsmen in the army for a year's service.

The troops, nearly 12,000 strong, would be conveyed to Baton Rouge in army trucks in a "combination recreational and tactical" move, Col. Standiford said.

Col. Standiford said he would go by airplane to Detroit and Green Bay this week and likely would close negotiations between the professional teams.

Grid Fans Had More Scoring to Keep 'Em Happy

Statistics Reveal 269 Teams Averaged 13.38 Points a Game

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
New York — (AP) — The nation's football players and fans had more fun during the 1940 season than they did the year before. . . . There was more scoring. . . . And there's no denying the fact that touchdowns are what make the fans whoop and the players grin.

The increase is revealed in the 19th annual Associated Press survey of gridiron scoring statistics, which also shows some surprising variation in the average number of points a game in the six major sectors of the football map.

Taken as a whole, the 269 teams covered in the survey averaged 13.38 points a game, a notable jump from last season's average of 13.00.

In contrast to this increase, the average total points for each team throughout the season showed a decline from 112.98 last year and 114.36 in 1938 to 107.71 during the past season. Apparently the teams generally played fewer games and got more action into them.

Another sharp contrast separates the sections, three of them showing big increases and the other three showing equally large declines. And the trends were general within the districts. While each had teams that stood out because of exceptional power and an equally exceptional lack of it, there weren't enough to overbalance the rest.

Southwest Leads
The southwest, long noted for its free-scoring games, again returned to the top of the list, with the south and middle west not far behind. The Rocky Mountain district, 1939 scoring leader, dropped to the bottom of the list in 1940, with the east and Pacific coast sectors also producing fewer scores.

The nine teams considered in the southwest played 65 games and scored 1,354 points. That gave them an average of 15.44 points a game and 15.93 points a game. A year ago, the same district had the highest team average, 129.60, but it figured out to 13.38 points a game as compared with 13.61 for the mountain teams. During the past season, the 12 teams of the big seven and Rocky Mountain conferences averaged only 93.17 points apiece and 11.18 points a game.

The south, paced by the mighty Tennessee outfit which piled up 319 points in winning its ten games, averaged 15.38 points a game and 143 points each for 37 teams. In the midwest, 54 teams averaged 14.94 points a game, jumping from 12.47 in 1939. The 1940 records:

Nation	Games	Points	T. Av.	G. Av.
Southwest	269	2,225	29.781	11.071
South	9	85	1,354	15.044
Midwest	27	344	5,291	143.000
East	54	461	6,886	127.52
Far West	142	1,101	13,533	95.30
Rocky Mountain	15	134	1,599	106.6
	12	100	1,118	93.17

Arizona Grid Mentor Confers on M. U. Job

Tucson, Ariz. — (AP) — Miles W. Castee, University of Arizona football coach, was reported today to be considering a bid to become head coach at Marquette University, Milwaukee.

After Castee's Wildcats defeated Marquette, 17 to 14, here Saturday he conferred with Conrad Jennings, Marquette athletic director, and the Rev. Donald J. Keegan, S. J., secretary of the athletic board.

Paddy Driscoll has resigned as Marquette coach.

Castee, who came here two years ago after 14 years as assistant coach at Michigan State, declined to comment. He receives $5,000 here on a one-year contract.

Hockey Players to Resume Fox Valley Loop Competition

Little Chute — Plans are being completed for another Fox Valley hockey league season. Although several of the entrants have lost members through army service, it is expected that last season's teams will again form the circuit this season. Managers of new club have been asked to contact Red Van Thiel, president of the circuit, at Little Chute.

De Pere has lost four regulars but will send out an S. O. S. for help to fill out its lineup. Appleton has lost their co-captains of last season, Sonny Reider and Ronald Tracy, but Tommy Reider will handle the reins this season. The Little Chute Aces have lost a star, Dazz Van Thiel, who is down south with Company D, and he will be missed. Bernie Blank, manager of the Menasha team, has failed to report for a league berth so far but may do so later. Seymour will have its lineup intact and is ready to go again this season.

A schedule will be drawn up sometime this week and play will start as soon as teams report that their rinks are ready.

Grid Attendance Shows an Increase

New York — (AP) — There seems no reason to worry about the future success of intercollegiate football.

The big losers—like Army, Yale, Kansas, Tulane, Texas Christian, and U. C. L. A.—were the only ones whose attendance for home games slumped badly during the 1940 season, an Associated Press survey revealed today.

Attendance as a whole throughout the United States showed a 21 per cent gain over the 1939 figures.

Bad weather, as well as bad teams, accounted for some losses, but the middle west, which suffered most from rain and cold, showed the biggest gain, an 11 per cent increase. Ohio State, although having lost half its games, reported the largest attendance total in its area, 201,931, an increase of more than 51,000 over 1939. Undeclared Minnesota reported a loss of about 15,000.

The shifting sites of some of the traditional games that always attract big crowds accounted for some of these changes. Ohio State, for example, was host to Michigan this year, as well as Pittsburgh and Indiana.

Bowling Tournament Scheduled at Antigo

Land O'Lakes — (AP) — The Great Northern women's pin bowling tournament for 1941 will be held at Antigo, it was announced yesterday at the conclusion of the annual meet. Several hundred women from northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan entered this year's contest.

Ripon College Plans Winter Sport Program

Ripon — (AP) — With an eye to the growing interest in winter sports, a new activity has found its way into the roster of Ripon college sports. Two weeks ago 20 students and faculty members met and organized the club.

The purpose in mind is two fold. First is that of a recreational organization, so that skiing may become a thing of common knowledge instead of a sport known to the few. Second, is to support a ski team in competition with other schools of the Central Collegiate union. The club is open to outsiders as well as students.

The club has several good hills at its disposal and for real competition the Kettle Moraine downhill run will be used.

Financial problems, although not disposed of, have been measurably lightened by contributions of merchants.

The club is organized with the idea that it may some day become a general outing club and youth center.

9. Making difficult spares: Two of the most common difficult spares are illustrated in the pictures above and I am showing where the ball must strike in order to sweep the pins.

The top picture shows the 1-2-4-10 spare and it is not as difficult to make as you might think. If your ball hits on the left of the No. 1 pin as shown your chances of making this spare are very good.

The side picture is the 2-4-5-8 spare, a common one among star bowlers.

Rockne Memorial Is Property of Gophers

Champaign Ill. — (AP) — Minnesota ousted off a spot in its trophy room today for the Rockne memorial award, a permanent possession of the Gophers on their performance through a decade of football ratings by Dr. Frank G. Dickinson of the University of Illinois.

Dr. Dickinson ranked Minnesota the No. 1 team of the nation in his 1940 compilations, which he said would be his last. The Gophers won the honor in 1934 and 1936 and had the best record over the 10 years he has issued his ratings, the Illinois professor said.

Minnesota, the Western conference champion and No. 1 team of the land in the Associated Press national poll, ranked just ahead of Michigan, which lost to the Gophers 7-6. Southern Methodist was ranked eighth, but Dr. Dickinson said that if the Mustangs lose to Rice Saturday they would drop from the list, with Boston college taking the eleventh position and Texas, Nebraska and Northwestern moving up a notch.

The ratings (with rankings determined largely on calibre of opponents played):

Pos.	W.	L.	Pts.
1. Minnesota	8	0	29.55
2. Michigan	7	1	26.16
3. Stanford	9	0	25.84

A team of four Negro boxers from Gary, Ind., and a heavy weight contest will feature the next boxing card of Oney Johnston post of the American Legion. It will be held at Armory on Thursday evening, Dec. 12.

The card will feature a double win-win, as usual, with a five round contest at 128 pounds one of the bouts and the heavyweight mix the other.

The evening's final contest will show Willie Jones of Gary, a golden gloves champion and winner of an American Legion boxing award against Fred Elston of Chicago, midwest A. A. U. champion.

Jones is 20 years old and has been fighting for three years. During that time he has had 57 fights, won 12 by knockouts, 41 by decision and lost 4. He has never been stopped. He is a high school graduate and aspires to become a clergyman.

During the last year he won the Gary gloves title in his weight, the state A. A. U. title, the American Legion title, and was quarter finalist in Chicago golden gloves and at the national A. A. U. meet in Boston.

Elston also is a colored boy, and is being brought here by Jabbe Young, Chicago boxing instructor.

In the heavyweight brawl, John Dux of Fond du Lac needs no buildup. He won top honors last winter in gloves elimination and then won the regional title at Green Bay. At Chicago he added several more wins to his record.

Nordman is reported to be 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighing 222 pounds. He came out of Nebraska, where he won Golden Gloves honors and then fought with the Chicago Tribune team in Inter-city bouts.

Tickets for the bouts already are on sale at the usual places.

Fete Viking, Terror Grid Teams at Dinner Tomorrow

Letters Will be Awarded by Coaches; McMillin Is Speaker

The 1940 football season for Lawrence college and Appleton High school will close officially Wednesday evening at the Masonic temple when the gridgers are guests at a football dinner. The event is an annual affair sponsored by Appleton Chamber of Commerce, Lawrence Men's club and the two schools.

A dinner at 6:15 will open the evening's program. Thereafter, Lawrence E. Saecker, representing the chamber, will take over and will introduce the toastmaster, Harry Sylvester. Awards will be presented to the high school and college gridgers with a few words by Coach Bernie Heselson of the college and Coach Myron Seims of the high school.

The guest speaker of the evening will be Alvin Nugent McMillin, a former Texas high school lad, who rose to fame with Centre college's great post-war football teams, one of which reached the heights when it went into the Harvard bowl almost unheard of and came out with a victory. McMillin, "Bo," was the quarter back of those teams which acquired the name the "Praying Colonels."

McMillin was the member of an outstanding high school football team at Fort Worth shortly after the war. When his coach, Robert "Chief" Myers, was named athletic director at Centre college, Danville, Ky., he took most of the team with him to Centre. The college then was headed by Dr. W. A. Gansfield, later president of Carroll college, Waukesha.

Natural leader
McMillin was a natural leader and his team soon started up the long ladder to stardom. During the first two seasons he was acting captain of the team and during the last two he was elected captain. He won all-America selection by Walter Camp in 1919 and played one year of professional ball.

In 1922 McMillin became head coach of Centenary college, Shreveport, La. After three seasons he left to go to Geneva college, Beaver Falls, Pa., and after another three years of success landed at Kansas State where he spent six years. Since 1934 he had been at Indiana university and rated among the outstanding coaches in the country. His all-time record shows 104 wins against 55 defeats and 7 ties.

Two years ago McMillin was elected head coach of the college all-star football team, chosen in the poll conducted by the Chicago Tribune. His squad defeated the Washington Redskins, national professional football champions that year, 28-16, in one of the most colorful and spectacular games of the series. In 1936, McMillin served as an assistant coach for the all-star collegiate squad, and has had the pleasure of seeing at least one of his players elected to the squad every year since he came to Indiana.

He is president this year of the National Football Coaches association.

Recognized as one of the keenest students of the game of football, McMillin is noted for his baffling and intricate plays. Called "the most colorful football coach in the United States" by a prominent Chicago sports writer, by McMillin's gridiron comments at Indiana have become classics with newspapermen.

Loures Cagers to Oppose St. John

Special to Post-Crescent
Marquette—Coach Joe Roland's Our Lady of Lourdes high school basketball team, which nosed out Peshigo, 21 to 20, last Friday after scoring a 24 to 18 win over Crivitz in the season's opener the previous week, will invade Little Chute Wednesday night in an attempt to extend its victory string at the expense of St. John's of the Fox River Valley Catholic conference.

Four lettermen are included in Lourdes' squad of 17 candidates this year. Heading the list of veterans is Neil Coon, senior center, who has scored 31 points in two games. Other seasoned performers on the Irish squad are Bob Schultz and Art Chevalier, both guards, and Jim Murphy, forward.

Chevalier may be used at forward with George Miller teaming with Schultz at guard for the invaders. Others likely to see action for Lourdes are Bill Waldron and Jack Kerski, both forwards. Kerski's free throw in the last three seconds of play beat Peshigo.

Loures will be host to St. John's at Marinette Jan. 31. The Irish also meet Keshena here Dec. 6 and at Keshena Jan. 17 in addition to playing a home and home series with St. Norbert of the Catholic conference.

Loures was recently readmitted to membership in the Catholic loop but schedule commitments this season will preclude the Marinette school's participation in the conference until next year.

Hartnett to Giants As Player and Coach

BY PRICE HOWARD

Atlanta—(P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates began strengthening their club today by purchasing second baseman Stuart Martin from the St. Louis Cardinals in a deal which gave the National league a jump on the American league in winter transactions. Manager Frankie Frisch indicated a move to make his Pirates pennant contenders next season by labeling the 27-year-old Martin as one of the National's best utility players and adding:

"You can't win a pennant without a good utility man."

Martin, who beat Frisch out of the latter's infield job with the Cards, rejoined the former "Fordham Flash" again in a straight cash deal. The price was not announced. Martin performed under Frisch three years before Frankie left St. Louis as manager after the 1938 campaign.

The New York Giants, who finished in sixth place—two notches below Pittsburgh—last season, obtained former Cub manager Gabby Hartnett as a player-coach and Brooklyn signed John Corriden as coach before the American league completed a deal. The Chicago Cubs let out Corriden along with Manager Hartnett and Coach George Uhle last month.

Major moguls are here for the convention of the minor leagues. Although "Stu" Martin's batting has not been over impressive, Frisch pointed to his ability to play all infield positions and the fact that he always stays in good condition.

Frisch indicated young Frankie Gustine would retain his second base job, leaving Martin to plug any infield emergency.

Hartnett played 8 years with the Cubs, the last three as manager after replacing Charley Grimm in midseason of 1938. His addition to the Giant payroll would not affect the club's present coaches, Manager Bill Terry said, enabling the 40-year-old catching veteran to fill pinch-hitting roles.

Hartnett led National catchers in fielding for seven years and he caught 100 or more games per season for 12 years for a league record. Hartnett also holds the major league mark for most consecutive chances (452) by a catcher without an error.

Brooklyn Manager Leo Durocher said Corriden would replace Fred Fitzsimmons as first base coach, leaving Fitzsimmons free to devote full time to pitching. He hurled 16 victories last season.

These deals opened the major league bargaining season at the annual convention of the 44 minor leagues in the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues. Business sessions will get under way tomorrow.

Bits About Bowling

Not so long ago a peculiar request wended its way to our desk. It read, "Set sponsor's name in larger type." Our first reaction was to dismiss it with a shrug and bury it in the nearest waste basket. On second thought, we realized the complaint was registered in all sincerity and merited the same kind of consideration. Before going any further, we hasten to say that it came from a bowler, not a team sponsor.

Again it must be pointed out that the Appleton Post-Crescent is a newspaper and its responsibility is to the reader, not the bowler, or, in this case, the team sponsor. The Post-Crescent has defined bowling league matches as news and treats them as such in their proper relation to other stories. Now, then, the Post-Crescent looks at the name of a team as the name of a team, a label to distinguish a group of bowlers. Whether it be Zilch's Xylophones or Sallys of the Alleys, it's still the name of a team and not an advertisement for a firm or product.

The hitch comes, (and the following can be applied to teams in all sports) when a team goes to a firm and proposes it put up the entry fee in return for the "free publicity" it will get through the publication of league standings and stories of the activities of the squad. They use that as a sales point, telling the sponsor that it is an effective and inexpensive way of keeping his name before the public.

It works very nice. The only trouble is that they're selling something they haven't got and over which they have no control. To make it plainer, if the newspaper suddenly should decide bowling league matches were not news and discontinued accounts of them, the teams who had pledged "free publicity" would be right smack behind a cute little 8-ball.

Getting into the mechanics of the thing, the Post-Crescent, carrying bowling news from Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Little Chute, New London, Freedom, Seymour, Twelve Corners and Clintonville, found itself confronted with a serious problem at the outset of this bigger and better bowling season. New and larger leagues were getting underway. There was a question whether the reader interest in bowling news warranted the necessary increase in time, effort, money and space as compared to other types of news. The last item appeared to be the stumbling block and it was a case of doing away with league standings or compressing them so they gave the essential information without taking up as much space. The latter course was adopted, league standings being set in smaller type.

Previously, league standings were set in regular-sized bold face type. There was a great deal of white, known in journalistic jargon as "dead," space between names of teams and their records of wins and losses. That white space now is being used and the same amount of information is contained in less than half the space.

The Post-Crescent is satisfied, no readers have kicked, no sponsor has protested. The bowler, or bowlers, who did complain probably went to bat for the sponsor because they thought he wasn't getting his money's worth. He wasn't getting the "ink" they had promised him. If a bowler has been crossed up because of this smaller type, let us say to him that he can make up for it by patronizing his sponsor and plugging his services or products. He can make up for it by delivering a standing invitation to his sponsor to be with the team every night it bowls. He can even go so far as to pay tribute to his sponsor by arranging a banquet or informal gathering in his honor at the end of the season. Too often a team gets its entry money and then forgets about the sponsor, expecting the newspaper or some fancy shirts to carry out the bargain.

For our part, we like to believe that the majority of sponsors back teams to further a sport, not for what commercial value the arrangement may have.

And that's today's temple treatise. Any additions or corrections???

The date of the Appleton Bowling association has been kicked all over the calendar but it finally has come to rest on the third Sunday in December, which, according to our reckoning, is Dec. 15. It has been called for 9 o'clock in the morning at the Elks club. All leagues are to have a representative in attendance and it is open to every kegler who'd like to see what makes the pin wheels go around.

Choice Hits: Betty Relfer knocked her average of 118 for a loop when she battered a 3-game average of 193 last week in the Women's City league at the Arcade. . . Talk about your enthusiasm. . . Carl Kuntz gave a blood transfusion at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and was on hand for Knights of Columbus goodfellowship bowling at 8:30 that same night. . . You'll see it once in a bowling lifetime. . . R. Shemanski dropped nine pins and left the No. 1 standing. . . After, to these many years, Hooks Pankratz rolled in the City Major league and then saw his scores tossed out on a technicality. . . Major C. A. Green, 80 years old and still bowlin', guested Santa Clara Keglers of the Elks Western league upon the occasion of his fifty-seventh wedding anniversary. . .

They say it's practically impossible but Billy Fries doesn't think it's so tough. He cleaned the 8-10 split. Bowlers of the National City league cleaned up everything in sight the other night at Y. M. C. A. alley with Charley Ehke. Bob Heiss, Erv Feldmann, Ralph Piper and Al Andersson dusting off the 3-10. Herb Ungrodt and E. Helms getting the 3-10 and the 5-10 and John Bauhs disposing of the 5-10. And that, incidentally, was a swell report. George Schuessler won a bout with the 4-7-9-10 and G. Teicher whisked the 3-10 and the 5-7-10 in the Merchants league.

Among keglerettes who canceled splits were Dorothy Muraski who negotiated the 4-9. S. Sonntag, 9-7. M. Stogbauer, 6-7.

Andy Varipapa, who will appear at the Elks alleys Dec. 20, holds the world's record exhibition average of 275. He rattled off games of 300, 268, 279, 299 and 259 on a New York alley in 1932. On another occasion he averaged 253 for 30 games including two perfect games in the set. That's really in the groove.

We accord this space to Eric Lindberg who recently dashed off a neat little 82. Some of Eric's "friends" wanted to be sure we didn't miss up on it.

Knights of Columbus keggers last week experimented with some intra-league goodfellowship bowling and were more than pleased with the results, especially some of those Dagwood sandwiches which loomed up during post-pin activities at the Catholic home. Who said 13 was unlucky? Among some of the less publicized prize winners were S. Timmers for pummeling the most strikes. He got 13. Dr. W. J. Frawley and Robert Liethen knotted for the most spares, 13 apiece. H. Colwell got the most blows, again 13. Split honors went to Dr. Wm. G. Keller and Walter Steenis, each getting 7. The figures are for 2-game series. The competition didn't prove a darn thing, however, for both the American and National divisions of the league each won 10 games and lost 10. The National division claimed a moral victory in that they got 18,343 pins to 18,304 for the American circuit. The most striking development of the evening was the performance of Otto's Food Market with games of 902 and 761 for a 1,663-total. Their opponents, Fountain Lumber, drubbed it in with a 1,045 and 1,011 for a 2,056 count.

We View With Pique Dept.: G. Wikeland jammed a 238. . . Bob Nehls rilled a 681 triple on games of 232, 257 and 191. . . Imagine, falling down to a 191. . . Most of us are lucky if we climb up to that mark. . . N. Hennings' 206 and 323 draws a hand. . . E. Boettcher sized a 241. . . A. Trettin didn't object to that 212, either. . . Bob, h'm, maybe there's something in a name. Deuster walloped 675 with singles of 204, 236 and 235. . . R. Loppnow has a 255 game and 644 series to dazzle the home folks. . . C. Helmlitz zoomed up into the alleysphere with a 650 total on games of 195, 221 and 234. . . Joseph Plank, one of Appleton's veteran bowlers, got hot with a 227. . .

We shouldn't tell tales out of school but it seems Glenn Arthur, Royal LaRose and Everette Davis, all members of the Yale team in the Eastern league, were sitting around the Post-Crescent office last Friday afternoon lamenting that they'd have to go down to the Elks alleys that evening and take their weekly beating. Yep, things looked mighty black. There was just no sense to it when a team like Navy had everything sewed up. They bemoaned that a white man didn't have a chance. And stuff to that effect. . . Next morning things were different. They were embryonic champions. They had only begun to fight. Yesser, bowling was a great game. Boy! Wait'll next week. And stuff to THAT effect. . . A quick shuffle through the morning bulge of score sheets revealed what had come to pass. Yale had posted new high team season marks of 1,110 and 3,113. Not only that. They had knocked off Columbia in three straight games and smashed into ninth place. There are 10 teams in the league. Their one regret was that Charley Hen-

Godoy Wins, Asks for Louis

In the Meantime He's Returning to Chile To Await the Match

Cleveland—(P)—Arturo Godoy, satisfied he has staked a claim for a third match with champion Joe Louis, packed his bags today and announced he was sailing Friday for South America—and would return only if Louis agreed to meet him again.

Godoy's manager, Al Weill, said he believed the Chilean's convincing 10-round decision over rugged Tony Musto of Chicago last night placed him in line for another title shot. Godoy battered and pounded Musto and floored him twice in the fifth round—once for no count and again for a count of three.

Godoy said his immediate reason for going to his home in Iquique, Chile, was the serious illness of his mother.

Since losing twice to the brown bomber, Godoy also beat Gus Dorazio of Philadelphia. "I think my fight last night showed I am best man to meet Louis," Godoy said. "Max Baer or no one wants to fight me so I might as well stay home until I get crack at the title."

Apolskis Will Play in The Blue and Gray Game

Montgomery, Ala.—(P)—The Blue and Gray association announced yesterday that Ray Apolskis, Marquette University center, had accepted an invitation to participate in the annual North-South all-star football game here Dec. 28.

The association was advised of Apolskis' acceptance by Lynn Waldorf, a coach of the northern "blue" squad.

Tom Flanagan spilled a 211 game and A. Faas showed a 552 series for individual high marks during Knights of Columbus American league matches at Elks alleys last night. Team honors went to Pitz and Treiber with an 889 game and Summitt Grocers with a 2,447 series. Schmidt Clothiers took a lone hold on the league lead with a 3-game win.

Top scorers included W. J. Konrad 193-546. A. Faas 192-552. D. Schreiter 200. F. Kamps 202. T. Flanagan 211. W. Fountain 206. C. Williamson 202.

Team results: Schaefer's (2) 846 741 804—2391. Tel. Co. (1) 816 770 740—2336. Pitz (2) 841 713 869—2423. Chippewa (1) 754 759 806—2319. Peoples (2) 779 832 813—2423. Fountain (1) 802 715 770—2387. Summitt (3) 806 780 861—2447. Zoric (0) 799 771 806—2378. Schmidt (3) 746 789 833—2346. Balliet (0) 738 764 731—2231.

Tap-a-Keg Pin League Rolls Initial Matches

Neil Davidson rapped a 213 game and a 634 series to lead the way during initial Tap-a-Keg league matches at Eagles alleys Sunday. Team honors went to Forster Eighths with a 912 game and Specials with a 2,629 series.

Match scores: Specials (2) 885 865 879—2629. Telulah (1) 732 900 829—2481. Forster (2) 883 828 912—2603. Dribble (1) 863 876 873—2612.

derson, the anchor man, would have to be farmed out to the minors. He failed to get a 600 series. Elks bowlers, you understand, talk in terms of handicap scores.

Charley Holmes led the pack with a 653 series, including a game handicap of 36 pins. The other "600 series" were Arthur's 646, including a total handicap of 114 pins; a 636 by LaRose, including a 3-game handicap of 37 pins; a 621 by Davis, including a cushion of 117 pins. Henderson had 537 with a game handicap of 18 pins.

Pin Patter: J. Doerfler had a swell start on one of the biggest scores of the year when he drilled games of 223 and 253. . . He stumbled with a 134, however, and came off with a 610. . . Which is still good.

E. Ingbreton opened with a 202 and skidded to a 118. . . A. Hoppe went up by 6, getting 161, 167 and 173. . . D. Van Alstyne warmed up with a 119 and wound up with a 202. . . J. Gabriel started off on the wrong foot with a 105 and then got in step with a 213. . .

To Ivan Williams of Neenah No. 2 keggers in the Teachers league goes a never-sharp scoring crayon for his score of the week, a 267 series on games of 77, 103 and 67. C. Radder can hardly escape mention with his 291 and E. Engle breaks into misprint with a 73 game and 293 series. F. Volkman doesn't get away with that 78, either.

Vikings Tip Oshkosh In Double Overtime

By GORDON MCINTYRE

Conference play for the Lawrence college basketball teams doesn't begin for another several days but there's considerable doubt if either will ever have a tougher, harder fought game than last night when Lawrence took a 43 to 43 decision in two overtimes.

Arranged as something of a test before league competition started, the game turned out to be a comprehensive examination. It tested everything to the utmost and it's doubtful if Coach Art Denney for Lawrence and Coach Bob Kolf for Oshkosh can think of anything about the lads used, that still is an unknown quantity—or quality.

Lawrence won probably because it had better staying qualities and better reserve talent. The several Titans who played throughout most of the long battle were literally hanging on the ropes before the game ended. Both coaches used ten men in various and sundry combinations but it appeared that Lawrence could use more combinations and still maintain strength.

From a critical standpoint, Lawrence was guilty of a great many defensive lapses that were costly. Some of them were due in part to the fact the Titans never allowed an opportunity to slip. A single Viking caught off balance or blocked out of a play seldom had a chance to recover before his man was headed for the basket.

Work Under Boards Bad

Lawrence's work under both bounding boards left much to be desired. The Vikings allowed Oshkosh to take altogether too many shots whereas Lawrence often failed to get even a single followup. And there were a terrific number of bad passes—long ones almost in the face of an opponent and, easily, intercepted. All of which doesn't mean that Lawrence won't be potent with more work. Denney said, when he explained the season's outlook, "There'll be a lot of mistakes."

The game opened slowly and gave no indication it would have a riotous finish. Oshkosh took a 3-point lead and then a new group went into the battle for Lawrence and soon had an 8 to 3 advantage. An Oshkosh rally tied the score at 10-all and a free throw gave Lawrence an 11 to 10 margin as the half ended.

When play was resumed, Ehrenhart, who was highly troublesome for the Vikes, got two baskets and Spear, some more trouble, got two more to give Oshkosh a 19 to 12 margin. Oshkosh held the lead as the game wore on and the Lawrence combinations were shifted.

With less than a minute to go, and Oshkosh leading by a 33 to 29 margin, Don Fredrickson sank a shot. When Jim Fleweger pushed a followup through the hoop, the score was tied at 33-all as the regulation period ended.

Vikes Take Lead

Lawrence hopes hit the gym ceiling early in the overtime when Fredrickson scored a long shot for his team. Jim Fleweger got two chances on free throws but blew them both. Lawrence took a half dozen followup shots after the second miss before Harvey dumped the ball for another basket and a 4-point lead. Two free throws by Spear erased part of the lead and the score was tied when Ehrenhart got loose and scored. Spear then dropped another basket on the fast drive past his guard and the Lawrence cause seemed hopeless.

Lawrence took the ball from out of bounds, passed up the floor to Bob Morris who swished a shot from half way to the Memorial drive bridge to tie the score at 39-all. Crossett scored as the gong sounded but it was ruled too late.

After another rest, the weary cagers got up off the floor to start another five minutes. Lawrence got the tip at center and worked a play with Fredrickson scoring. A few seconds later Morris took a pass from Fleweger and tallied another shot and when Fleweger followed up someone else's miss, the Vikes had a 6-point lead.

Oshkosh still was pitching, however, and got back two points, Lawrence added a point on a free throw, Ehrenhart again broke loose to score for Oshkosh and cut the lead to three points. When the Vikes got the ball in a scramble under the Oshkosh hoop and passed out to Fleweger who was alone half way down the court, and he leisurely dribbled under the hoop and scored, the ball game was all over with the Vikes 46 to 43 victors.

Jimmy Fleweger paced the Vikings with six goals and two free throws for 14 points. Fredrickson had six baskets for 12 points. Next Monday night the teams meet again at Oshkosh.

The box score:

No. 10. The University of Alabama star play with the Chicago when they meet the Richmond arrows in a professional game here Sunday.

Hutson, pass-catching ace of the Green Bay Packers, will be the target for the pitching of Earl Hall, former all-America quarterback at Mississippi and now a stalwart

Wheat King to Reign Again

Francis Lloyd Rigby,
Wembley, Alta., Cops
Honor Second Time

F. D. WILSON
Chicago.—(P)—Francis Lloyd Rigby, Wembley, Alta., will reign as "wheat king" for another year. The 22-year-old Canadian won the 41st international livestock position's grain show yesterday. Judges agreed that his sample of red spring wheat was the best. His exhibit of reward wheat represented a yield of 67.7 bushels per acre. Under show rules Rigby, a University of Alberta agricultural student, withdrew from competition three years.

Answer False Alarm, Fire Station Robbed

Anderson, Ind.—(P)—An alarm which sent firemen to St. John's hospital turned out to be false. Back at the fire station, they found burglars had robbed their lockers of $300. Assistant Chief Arnold Meister put two and two together and decided the burglars turned in the false alarm.

Judges crowned two other monarchs—corn king Charles N. Fischer, of Shelbyville, Ind. and oats king Paul Francis Pawlowski, of Vilna, Alta. An 18-year-old Indiana girl, Beverly Meal of Waldron, was named "corn princess"—champion of junior growers. Canadians won the barley, alfalfa, soybean and rye championships but the hay title went to an American, George H. Helms, Belleville, Ill., on his alfalfa sample.

Wheat Prices Are Unchanged

News Developments
Offer Little to Influence Market

Chicago.—(P)—Wheat futures prices were confined to a trading range of about a cent today. The December contract firmed sporadically, reaching 90¢, up 1 cent, at the day's best, but was unable to retain the advance and backed down to close at 89½¢. Other wheat and all corn futures closed near the day's lows. Weakness characterized the corn pits throughout the session. General interest was lacking in the market, although fair amounts of December wheat were bought in exchange for May at 2¢ cents difference. News developments offered little to influence the market either way. Receipts were: wheat 16 cars, corn 81, oats 15. Wheat closed unchanged to 1 cent lower than Monday's final prices, December 89½¢, May 91¢-97¢; corn 1-1 cents off, December 61½¢, May 60½¢; and oats 1-1 lower.

J. C. Penney Company Votes Extra Dividend

New York.—(P)—Directors of J. C. Penney company voted an extra dividend of $2 in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a common share, both payable Dec. 26 to holders of record Dec. 12. A similar extra was paid a year ago.

Wind, Sun and Work Toughen Up Guardsmen From Appleton

BY A TIRED SOLDIER

Camp Beauregard, La.—Now that we are settled and fairly well organized at our new home for the coming year, the boys of Company D are really getting into the harness and making themselves into first rate soldiers. Before we mention anything on the drill and life at camp we would like to mention a few words about the camp itself and the surrounding area. Camp Beauregard is located about six miles from the town of Alexandria, La. and is easily accessible by buses which run on steady schedules for any one wishing to go to town or to come back to camp. At present no information is available on the size of the camp but there are about 14,000 men stationed here. Drafts will be inducted at the beginning of next week and Michigan mechanized units are expected to arrive this week.

Our daily schedule is as follows: 5:45 A. M. first call; 6:00, reveille; 6:15, breakfast; 6:45, sick and police calls; 7:15, drill call; 11:30, recall; 12, dinner; 1:00 P. M., drill call; 4:30, recall; 5:30, retreat; 6:00, supper; 8:00, tattoo; 10:15 call to quarters; 10:30, taps.

It is usually dark when we get up in the morning and doesn't get light till we go up for mess. Time between mess and drill is spent in making up bunks, cleaning up tents and any small jobs the fellows have to do. Most fellows are becoming quite proficient in making their own beds, although it was quite a novelty to a lot of them. Drill is held daily, mornings and afternoons, except on Saturday, when we have half a day off and Sunday, when there are no duties except those that are necessary such as sergeants in charge of quarters and guards.

Our company consists of 123 men and three officers at the present time, although our regular peace time strength would be five officers.

Platoon Leaders

Platoon sergeants of the 30-calibre machine guns are Sergeants Bob Green and Max Buell. Sergeant Harvey Doro is in charge of the 50-calibre guns and Sergeant Ralph Schwerbel has the 81 mm. mortar platoon. The latter two platoons are new to the company since its change into the heavy weapons company class.

Our company street is almost two blocks long and has 24 tents. There are about six men in each tent, under the orders of a corporal. The first few days here were filled with surprises for most of us, especially the newer men. The new organizations of the army has changed a lot of the old methods and we are all getting caught on small errors every once in a while. Tents have wooden floors and small sheet metal stoves. We also have electric lights in all the tents, which is something we have never had at any of the previous camps. Among some of the surprises for the men were issues of pillows, cases, bed sheets and comforters for each man. We have also received "red flannels" because some of the mornings down here are rather cold.

Camp life is pretty much routine for the older fellows in the company, but for the new men who have never had any army training before, each day brings new things to study and learn and each day they become more and more proficient at their given jobs. Much credit can be given to Captain H. J. Piette, commanding officer of our company, who, by continually helping instructors, has done much to put the company in the well trained position that it is today. Captain Piette is assisted by First Lieutenant William Donovan and Second Lieutenant William Page, Lieutenant Page, who recently transferred to our company, was formerly with the headquarters company of Neenah.

Getting Tough

Living and working outdoors has done much to improve the appetites of all the men at camp. Most of the fellows are becoming darker from the effects of the wind and the sun, and the unit has the appearance of tip-top physical condition.

The weather has been wet, bringing out many comments on the "Sunny South." The general routine is about three days straight of rain, one day of sunshine, and two or three days of cold weather. The rain, of course, creates a little bit of mud which in turn gives the fellows something of a job in cleaning shoes and equipment. All in all, the weather has been pretty decent despite the rain, and although there were a few mornings when it was cold the majority of the days are almost ideal. We have been wearing overcoats to drill for the last few days, and although they are comfortable in the morning, they get pretty warm on the hike in from the drill field at noon. They are usually taken out again at noon because the temperature drops as soon as the sun sets.

We have a camp motion picture theater and there is always a crowd in attendance. Pictures are the latest and are received almost as soon as they are released to the theaters at home. The admission price is low and it provides an inexpensive, enjoyable means of spending an evening. Living outdoors again shows some effects because a great share of the fellows "hit the hay" at an extremely early hour. Spare time is spent in study and in the individual gun squads much time is spent by the men in assembling and breaking down the guns. Letter writing also takes up a great share of the spare time. There are, of course, the "bull sessions", where the news and events of the day are discussed.

Life In The Army

All these groups help create the feeling of comradeship and friendliness that can come only from living the "share and share alike" way that is followed in the army. Radios are numerous on the company street and it is seldom that there isn't at least one radio going. Cameras are popular. According to the number of pictures being taken, there should be a lot of permanent remembrances of the year.

The darkie shoe shine kids who frequent the camp are one of the favorite subjects and the fellows kick them a lot just for the sake of hearing their southern accent.

A few of the highlights in last week's schedule include church, both Catholic and Protestant, on Sunday mornings, instruction on stripping and assembling the machine gun, and several football games between the members of the company. Outstanding among these games was the one between the corporals and the sergeants Tuesday afternoon. The sergeants got the jump by wearing fatigue clothes (overalls) under their overcoats and having the legs rolled up so they wouldn't be noticeable. This kept them from getting their clothes dirty in the wet, slippery mud which covered the field of battle. To get even, the corporals put 15 men on their team against 10 men for the sergeants. Despite the overpowering odds of weight and superior numbers, the sergeants proved decidedly the superior players. Sergeant Red Doro was the bone crusher of the day, putting Corporals Baer and O. Schneider out of commission on the first play.

The backfield of the corporals consisted of Corporals Kuchenbecker, Baer, Calmes, and Fiebelkorn. Carrying the mail for the sergeants were Doro, DeCoster, Green, and Breuer. Stellar line work by Sergeants Max Buell and Jim Kerrigan helped the sergeants.

Plants Sometimes Get Out Of Their Natural Habitats

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Many times the amateur botanist runs across a plant which is, apparently, outside its natural range. He may wonder how it got there, whether it is an escape from cultivation or whether that particular species ranges wider than suspected even by plant authorities.

Plants, like other forms of life, are continually striving for existence and when given either natural or artificial means of distribution, they spread out in all directions. Their rate of progress and the abundance of their growth depend on soil and weather conditions and on whether or not they are kept in check by cultivation or other means.

A new or unusual plant in any area is always discovered first by a plant student of that community. He knows what to expect in plant life and when something different appears he spots it immediately and greets it with pleasure if it is a desirable species, and with deep concern if it is a weedy variety.

Fruit Is Edible

Two such enthusiastic plant students are Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Nelson of Kaukauna. In this column several years ago I wrote of our visit with them to the Thousand Island district of that town. There for the first time I saw hackberries, tree relatives of the elms. Elms and hackberries belong to the nettle family and a nickname for this species is "nettle-tree."

Unlike the American elm, the hackberry is short-trunked and has a rounded crown, often adorned with clusters of many slender twigs or "witches brooms." Old trees have corky out-growths on the bark wart-like in form, not ridged as in the cork or rock elm. The edible fruit is fleshy and cherry-like, ripening to a deep purple in fall.

In the southern half of the state the hackberry is not uncommon, although few except tree students recognize it. Its natural habitat is lake shores and river banks and in the Thousand Island district it is quite common. Farther north it is almost entirely absent. J. B. Kendall of Green Bay found a single hackberry growing beside a river in Kewaunee county.

It grows most abundantly in southern states. The western hackberry grows in the dry plains, prairies, growing and producing seeds where other trees cannot live. Another tree pointed out to us the Nelsons was the chinquapin oak. In range it is still more southern than the hackberry, but were shown a number of the trees in Kaukauna. The leaves resemble those of the chestnut and the fruit is sometimes known as "chestnut oak." Its fruit is an acorn which ripens in a year, like the acorns of the white-oak group.

Recently we visited the Nelsons again and were taken to see a bladdernut tree growing at H. Cliff park in Calumet county. Wisconsin it grows as a shrub small tree, those we saw were 10 to 15 feet high. It bears a compound leaf consisting of three leaflets. May the drooping clusters of beech-shaped flowers appear, to be placed in autumn by three-cornered, papery capsules about the size of the prickly pod of a wild cucumber. Inside the papery capsule are two or three hard seeds, looking a little like somewhat flattened yellow peas.

Saw Big Cottonwood

It rained the day of our visit and I lost my sense of direction as I drove about, but I think it was near Brotherton in Calumet county where were shown the largest tree I have ever seen. This was a cottonwood growing on the grounds of a little country cemetery.

Mr. Nelson measured the tree at waist height it was about 22 inches in circumference and seven feet in diameter. The bark was very bluish and gnarled, signifying great age for a species which, although is a very fast grower, generally dies before it reaches that size.

Some years ago, while trying to find out which species of sumac grew in the state, I came across some information on the dwarf sumach. This dwarfed variety was supposed to have been found in a certain sandy soil region of Marinette county, and nowhere else in the state.

On one of our bird club trips we found the dwarf sumac growing near Flintville, in Brown county. Mr. Kendall was the first one to discover its identity. The shrub grows only a foot or two high its leaves resemble those of common staghorn sumac and its clusters of red berries are more spreading and less velvety than those of the latter plant.
